KLINE JURY PICKED AFTER DEFENSE LOSES PLEA TO QUASH CHARGES

ASKS MASSIE PARDON BY CONGRESS

Crisp Presents Resolution To Free Four Defendants; Will Try Half-Castes

Demand Protection For U. S. Womanhood

Write your representatives in Washington to take the necessary steps to protect the honor of American womanhood in the American possession of Hawaii, and also to compel decent respect on the part of the Hawaiian rabble for our American nation and our nation's patriotic defenders.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP.)—A congressional pardon for the four defendants convicted of manslaughter in the Massie case was proposed in the House today by Representative risp (Dem.), of Georgia.

At the same time the Senate passed a bill to prevent "hung" juries in Hawaiian cases from operating as an acquittal.

The bill carries out one of the recommendations made by Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, who investigated conditions in the islands after Joseph Kahahawai, one of those charged with an attack on Mrs. Thalia Massie, had been killed.

A jury disagreed at the first trial of Kahahawai and four others in connection with the attack. Under Hawaiian law two jury disagreements result in acquittal. The four men are to go to trial for the second time immediately.

PARDON BILL

The pardon bill introduced in the House by Crisp read as follows:

"Whereas, The United States of America exercises complete sovereignty over its territory of Hawaii; and,

"Whereas, Under acts of Congress, the Governor of the territory is delegates the authority to grant pardons to convicted persons in criminal cases, but such delegated authority in no wise prevents Congress from exercising its complete sovereignty and will over the said territory of Hawaii and its courts and officials,

"Therefore, Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives that Lieut. Thomas S. Massie, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Albert O. Jones and E. J Lord be and they are hereby granted a full and complete pardon for the ocense of man-

Joie Ray Races Death to Reach Daughter's Side

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.)—Little Joie Ray ran today a marathon with death—with little chance to win.

Once a premier miler of America, a lad who stepped into the books with a brave 4:12, a versatile athlete of cinders, of the arena, of Canadian snows and, lately of the marathon dance, Ray dropped from the latter contest early today and started for Chicago.

A telegram told him that his 10-year-old daughter, Rosalie, was dying.

Ray has been grinding his way around a marathon dance floor for four weeks.

He was the favorite. But the bad breaks began early. His original partner quit the contest to marry. For hours he carried on alone. Then he acquired another partner. She collapsed under the punishing test. Joie kept on.

To say he was not a great athlete is to ignore the 800 medals and trophies he treasures.

But the trophies may go soon. Joie said he would sell his medals to raise money for the effort to save his daughter's life.

There isn't much sentiment at a marathon dance hall, but when the announcement was made that Ray was quitting to go to his daughter's bedside, many spectators wept.

LINDY BELIEVED ON SECRET TRIP

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 2.—(AP.)—Reports were current today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was not at his home in Sourland Mountain and that he has been absent for several days. The reports could not be confirmed.

The flier is reported to have left his estate several days ago on a secret mission in connection with the search for his son, Charles Augustus, Jr., who was kidnaped on the night of March 1.

State police stationed at the Lindbergh house have steadfastly declined to comment on the Colonel's whereabouts.

WEATHER FOILS AIDES

NORFOLK, Va., May 2.—(INS.)—Bad weather today blocked three of the negotiators for the return of the Lindbergh baby from making a trip to sea in the yacht Marcon for the purpose of contacting the supposed kidnapers.

The Marcon, carrying John Hughes Curtis, chief of the negotiators, and two of his associates, Edward B. Bruce, retired Elmira (N. Y.), banker, and Lieut. George L. Richard, Navy airman, left the naval base this morning, but after being out a short time, returned and was anchored at the pier.

A high wind, steadily growing worse, forced the negotiators to return. The negotiators plan to leave again at the first favorable opportunity on what is regarded as their crucial voyage in their efforts to effect the return of the baby.

Wilkerson Action Delayed in Senate

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP.)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today referred back to the sub-committee the nomination of Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, for promotion to the Circuit bench.

Chairman Norris announced the action was taken to permit further hearing of Donald R. Richberg, attorney for the Railway Labor Executives Association, which is one of the leading groups fighting the nomination of the Chicago jurist, who sentenced Al Capone to prison.

CAPONE PLEA REFUSED BY HIGH COURT

Supreme Tribunal Denies Review to Gangster From Income Tax Conviction

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP.)—Al Capone today was denied a review by the Supreme Court of his conviction for evading income taxes.

The ruling meant that America's most notorious gangster had lost his last legal chance of escaping his 11-year sentence.

"Scarface Al" is now in jail in Chicago. Confined there since his sentence by Judge James H. Wilkerson, he will probably be sent to a federal prison in a few days.

As is customary, the court did not give its reasons for refusing to open the case. It previously had refused to interfere with sentences imposed on Ralph Capone, Al's brother, and other members of the Capone gang convicted for failure to pay income taxes.

Capone was indicted on June 5, 1931, on charges of evading his 1925, 1926 and 1927 federal income taxes.

In addition to his 11-year sentence he was fined $50,000. The penalties were confirmed by the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals on February 27, 1932, and on March 23, 1932, he was denied a rehearing.

In his plea for a review, Capone argued that the indictment against him was defective because it was worded in general terms which did not give him sufficient information to prepare his defense.

Quizzed, Not Held In North Side Fire

Philip Piazza, 19, of Luzerne street, North Side, for whom the river was dragged when his car was found abandoned on the Sixteenth Street Bridge several months ago, was erroneously reported arrested last week in connection with a fire in a vacant house in the 400 block, Shadeland avenue. He was only questioned by police, they said, and then released.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP.)—The Senate lost its fight with the President today when the Supreme Court declared Chairman George Otis Smith, of the Federal Power Commission, was entitled to hold that office.

Heavy Frost Here Tonight Predicted

Heavy frost is predicted for the Pittsburgh district tonight, but Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman does not believe blooming fruit trees will be damaged. He, however, believes some flowers, set out early may be damaged.

Budding fruit, he said, has been subjected to frosts during the past week which had inured it to the cold and it probably could stand a drop in temperature to 40, predicted for tonight.

8 MEN, 4 WOMEN TO DECIDE FATE OF MAYOR, SUCCOP

By WILLIAM PFARR
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Pa., May 2.—A jury of eight men and four women, one of them the sister-in-law of the Mayor of Butler, was chosen in rapid-fire fashion today to try Mayor Charles H. Kline and his former supplies director, Bertram L. Succop, on charges of malfeasance in office.

Selection of the jury followed promptly after the defense won a slight modification of the charges against Kline and Succop but lost their fight to quash the indictment.

Questioning of the jurors for the defense was done by Attorney Zeno Henninger, of Butler, and for the commonwealth by Attorney A. C. Troutman, also of Butler, representing the Citizens' Committee of Pittsburgh in the prosecution.

The defense and the commonwealth used four peremptory challenges each.

In questioning Mrs. Nellie Heineman, of Butler, it was brought out that she is a sister-in-law of Mayor Joseph A. Heineman, of Butler. She was accepted by both sides.

I. M. Dyke, former Democratic County Commissioner of Butler County, who retired from public office January 1, was challenged peremptorily by the commonwealth.

James D. Donnelly, accepted as the sixth juror, when questioned revealed that he knew May Daugherty and William Cook, two of the eight persons under indictment on embracery charges as a result of the alleged attempt to "fix" the original Kline jury panel in March. The point was not pressed, however, and he was permitted to serve.

Kline and Succop pleaded "not guilty" before Judge Thomas D. Finletter, assigned by the State Supreme Court to try the case, under a change of venue, after the defense motion to quash the indictment had been overruled.

OPENING SURPRISE

Start of the trial was a surprise, another postponement having been anticopated since revelation was made last night of a second alleged jury-fixing plot. Two real estate men were in jail today accused as fixers. They are Charles H. Flick, of Bakerstown, and W. DeWitt McBride, of Butler, former scchool teacher, said to have served a jail term for a liquor law violation.

Judge Finlettter indicated he was striking out certain alleged purchases because he saw no reason for more than one alleged

Robbers Again Use Store Air Register

An outside air register was the route for thieves to enter a chain grocery store at 5409 Second avenue, and take $19.75 from the cash register, according to a report to the city detective bureau today. The theft occurred between Saturday night and early today. Robbers followed the same method to escape with $15 last Tuesday.

LODGES ESCAPE PADLOCKS

Two Federal Prohibition Department petitions for padlocks on fraternal clubs were denied in Federal Court today; one because the raid was made without a search warrant, the other because the raiders used bogus membership cards to gain admission.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker dismissed the petitions, which were against the Elks Lodge No. 11, Seventh street and Duquesne way, Pittsburgh, and Fraternal Order of Eagles No. 577, in Greensburg.

The Greensburg clubrooms were raided after dry agents, posing as members of the order and showing fraudulent membership cards, were admitted and were permitted to purchase bottles of home brew.

Dainty Dancer Uppercuts Heavyweight Carnera

By FREDRIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

PARIS, May 2.—A right uppercut to the chin of Primo Carnera, delivered by a little American dancer who stood on her tiptoes to swing at the boxer's jaw, precipitated something in the nature of a free-for-all fight at the fashionable Club Lido on the Champs Elysees today.

Mickey Devine, 105-pound featured dancer in Earl Carroll's Vanities, emerged unscathed, but Carnera suffered a badly cut chin.

The fracas had its inception in an argument between Mickey and Primo over the Italian pugilist's battle with the French heavyweight, Griselle, Saturday night. She took issue with Carnera's ring tactics and told him:

"I don't like the way you fought Griselle — it wasn't clean."

Carnera grinned his usual grin, so Mickey decided to show Primo the way it should be done. She swung and a large, sharply-cut sapphire that bedecked one of Mickey's shapely fingers took a piece out of Carnera's jaw. Carnera said:

"I never argue with a woman."

'MAY DAY' CALM HERE AS PARADERS HEED POLICE BAN

FIRE HOSE HELD READY TO BALK MARCHERS

New Kensington, Arnold, McKeesport Celebrations Called Off by Leaders

May Day came and went yesterday without disturbing the peace of Allegheny County. With permits refused for parades and big demonstrations, observance of the day was marked in many boroughs by small gatherings in which speakers denounced capitalism and the Army and Navy program.

Parades scheduled to be held in New Kensington, Arnold and McKeesport failed to form, although organizers had said they would be held despite the denial of permits. Few arrests were reported.

FIRE HOSE HELD READY

Police and firemen from New Kensington and Arnold with two fire engines, several hundred feet of hose and hundreds of spectators gathering to see what would happen, caused reds of that district to call off their projected activities.

Their parade, branded as a monster demonstration against capitalism, failed to form at Communist headquarters, 1300 Fourth avenue, New Kensington. Chief of Police D. J. Zeyloisel sat at the desk in Communist headquarters, surrounded by an array of banners prepared for the parade.

One block beyond Chief Zeyloyle and his patrolmen, Chief of Police S. A. Hill of Arnold and his force flanked by Arnold fire engine companies waited for the demonstration, which failed to materialize.

WARRANTS ISSUED

Chief Hill issued warrants against John Sara, alleged Communist organizer, and two Pittsburgh demonstrators for activities in Arnold.

While speaking at a small demonstration in McKeesport, Ernest Carruthers was struck by a man from the crowd, who approached the wagon from which he was speaking as if to congratulate him. The assailant fled in the crowd. Three other speakers appeared on the improvised platform, but were not molested. The projected parade for McKeesport reds failed to materialize.

PLEDGE MOONEY AID

A unanimous pledge to carry on the fight to free Tom Mooney and imprisoned Kentucky miners was made by more than 2,000 persons who attended the May Day mass meeting in West Park under the auspices of the Socialist party and labor organizations.

The meeting, orderly and with no police present except the regular park patrolmen, was addressed by James H. Maurer, former Socialist councilman of Reading, and E. F. Strattman, of Chicago. Robert Lieberman, secretary of the Socialist party of Allegheny County, presided, and James Tate read the resolution protesting the continued imprisonment of Mooney and the 42 Kentucky miners.

May Day Observance Most Calm Since War

Associated Press.

Three persons were dead today, scores were in hospitals and hundreds of heads bore the marks of police clubs as the aftermath of May Day celebrations throughout the world. The disorders were less serious than in other years, however, and the observance was ranked as one of the most peaceful since the World War.

Most large cities saw parades of Socialists, Communists and workers' groups yesterday. The largest of all was a day-long march at Moscow of 2,000,000 men and women, soldiers and civilians, past the tomb of Lenin in Red Square.

One man was killed near Madrid during a clash, and two others met death in the coal strike area at Sosnowwiec, Poland.

New York led the demonstrations in the United States with a parade in a drizzling rain of 40,000 Communists carrying a bedraggled dragon branded "capitalism."

Plan 5 Million Fund For Dry Law Repeal

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Formation of the Anti-Prohibition Battle Fund, Inc., for the purpose of raising $5,000,000 to bring about the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was announced today.

Among the trustees were listed George Gordon Battle, prominent attorney; Francis Bellamy, editor of the Outlook, and Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor. Firms and individuals will be solicited to purchase "swat the dry" stamps at 1 cent each and affix them to their mail.

MARKET PROBE BEGINS IN N. Y.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—The scene of activity in the Senate stock market investigation shifted today from Washington to New York.

Investigators for the Senate Banking Committee were understood to have started work on records of the Stock Exchange and brokerage offices in search of abuses which might call for legislation.

Meanwhile, everything was at a standstill at committee headquarters in the Capitol. Chairman Norbeck was in South Dakota for his primary contest and William A. Gray, the committee counsel, was at his home in Philadelphia.

Gray said before leaving here Saturday he would go to New York about Wednesday of this week to supervise the work there.

Other members of the committee were not informed of the detailed operations of the investigators.

The investigators were instructed to study most carefully the operations of a score of pools on both the "bull" and "bear" sides of the market.

RUTH NICHOLS GUEST OF CITY

Ruth Nichols, the noted aviatrix, was the guest of the City of Pittsburgh today at a reception in City Council Chambers.

She is here on a tour of the country collecting women's signatures to petitions to abolish war.

Mrs. John M. Phillips, clubwoman and wife of the former city councilman, presided at the reception. City Controller James P. Kerr, Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang and Council President John S. Herron composed the city's reception committee.

Mrs. Fortescue's Husband to Join Her

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Maj. Granville Fortescue said today that he will sail from Los Angeles on the S. S. Mariposa on Saturday, May 7, for Honolulu to join his wife, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, who with her son-in-law and two naval enlisted men, was convicted of slaying Joseph Kahahawai. He will probably leave for the coast tonight by rail.

He returned late last night from Washington, where he spent the week-end conferring with federal officials regarding the Fortescue-Massie case.

White Jurors' Agreeing To Conviction Stuns Massie's Wife

HONOLULU, T. H., May 2.—(INS.)—"Why is fate so unkind to us? What have we done to deserve all this sorrow?"

Mrs. Thalia Massie, tragic central figure in a drama of the tropics whose life has been all but wrecked in the brief span of eight months, today asked these questions of an intimate friend.

The friend, who refused to allow her name to be used, said:

"She can't seem to comprehend what it is all about.

"She feels naturally bitter against the jury that convicted her mother and husband because they avenged the attack on her by killing one of her assailants.

"She can't comprehend the six white men on the jury doing what they did.

"She didn't expect so much from the others of mixed blood. She kept repeating over and over again:

"'Those white men, how could they, how could they?'

"Thalia, who was married five years ago at the age of 16, isn't very worldly wise. She doesn't understand life yet with all its tribulations."

Mrs. Massie's first reaction when she sat in court Friday and heard the verdict was one of terror, according to her friend.

"She told me that one thing flashed through her mind—prison—prison for the ones she loved best.

"The jury's recommendation of leniency meant nothing to her.

"She had thought that the tragic stories related by Tommy (Lieut. Thomas H. Massie) and herself on the witness stand, and Mr. Darrow's masterful argument would have convinced them the killing, although unpremeditated, was justifiable.

"All Friday and Saturday she was in a highly nervous state but Mr. Darrow had a heart-to-heart talk with her and that greatly encouraged her.

"He told her to brace up because after all the jury did not have the final say in the matter and there was a very good chance for a reversal."

Akron May Begin Pacific Hop Tonight

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 2.—The dirigible Akron probably will leave tonight for the Pacific Coast for maneuvers but no definite time or route has been announced. The Akron, recently repaired after an accident, will be in command of Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl. The length of the ship's stay in the West will be determined by the amount of helium available there.

AMERICANS MAY BE JAILED WITH ORIENTALS

Mrs. Fortescue to Occupy Prison With Half-Castes In Case Appeals Fail

International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., May 2.—Five women of Oriental and mixed blood may form the prison companions of the aristocratic Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue if appeals from the "honor slaying" verdict of conviction are rejected.

These five, recruited from the criminal circles of this melting pot of the Pacific, now are the only women confined within the grim walls of Oahu Prison.

It is to Oahu that Mrs. Fortescue and her co-defendants must go if the elaborate legal machinery to be set in motion by Clarence Darrow fails in its purpose to remove the stigma of conviction from the four Americans.

SERVING LIFE TERMS

Of the five women now in Oahu, two are Filipinos, one is Chinese, one part Hawaiian, and one a Spanish Filipino.

The two Filipino women are serving life terms for killing their husbands, the Chinese and the part Hawaiian are sentenced as forgers, and the Spanish Filipino was incarcerated on vice charges.

Oahu prison was constructed in 1917 and is located in the outskirts of Honolulu.

It consists of three acres surrounded by a 10-foot concrete wall. The administration building, a three-story concrete and stucco structure, forms one wall. On the inside yard are the cell blocks and dormitories in one building comprising four wings in the shape of a cross. A recreational field, inclosed by a picket fence, adjoins the prison.

412 CONVICTS

Although Oahu's capacity is 326 convicts, 412 are now housed there. In addition, there are 118 convicts in four prison camps on other islands.

Oahu prison played a conspicuous part in the demand for civic reform that followed the Massie case. Laxity was charged to prison officials. Convicts were said to have been allowed the greatest freedom.

It was a standing joke in Honolulu, administration critics charged, that the prison key always was left out so that convicts who absented themselves for week-ends could get back in.

WAGNER URGES JOB INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS.)—Compulsory unemployment insurance was recommended to the Senate today by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York. He said charity, public or private, should be the last resort in dealing with the present economic problem.

As a member of the select committee appointed to investigate unemployment insurance systems, Wagner's report contained his individual views.

On the basis of his information Wagner said he had concluded that much of the suffering attendant upon unemployment which was evident in the United States, has for the most part been avoided in the countries enjoying a system of compulsory unemployment insurance at a relative cost not in excess of the relief expenditures incurred by the United States.

PROSECUTOR'S SIDE OF CASE

(Editor's Note—John C. Kelley, prosecutor in the Fortescue-Massie "honor slaying" trial, has written exclusively for International News Service an explanation of his side of the case.)

By JOHN C. KELLEY

Prosecutor in the Honor Slaying Trial.

HONOLULU, T. H., May 2.—I am amazed at the criticism from the mainland over the outcome of the Fortescue-Massie murder trial.

As a matter of fact, the jury was more than lenient, in my opinion, in returning verdicts of manslaughter and recommending clemency.

I stand for the law as opposed to those who violated it.

We presented to the jury only the facts in this case, and those facts lead to the unrefuted evidence that the defendants killed Joseph Kahahawai. The same presumption of innocence that clothed the defendants at the outset of the trial clothes Kahahawai way down deep in his grave.

We do not settle problems of justice in Hawaii on racial lines, and members of the jury, I am satisfied, reached their conclusions by honest convictions and a fair balancing of the law and of the evidence.

It should be understood that the defense arguments to the jury were based on passion and not on reason, and on sympathy, not on insanity.

I did only my sworn duty as the public prosecutor in presenting this case.

WIFE SCORNED KELLEY'S LAW

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—(Universal.)—The mill of humanity grinds strangely.

Take the case of Prosecutor John C. Kelley, of Hawaii, who demanded conviction of the four defendants in the Massie "honor slaying" case.

Police records here today disclosed the paradoxical attitude of his wife, Mrs. Nan Kelley, who, a year ago, took the law into her own hands and flogged a man in a downtown theater. And this in ironic contrast to the determined demand of Prosecutor Kelley that the Massie jury convict and disregard sentiment that the defendants were justified in "taking the law into their own hands."

In dealing with the man she accused of molesting her here, Mrs. Kelley took the leather belt from her coat and lashed him across the face, to the astonishment of the theater audience. She then pursued him up the aisle to the lobby, where a policeman arrested him.

The accused, George Kennedy, 28, a mechanic, denied molesting Mrs. Kelley and was substantiated by his sister, who was with him. Prosecution later was dropped when Mrs. Kelley said Kennedy had been sufficiently punished when she assumed the role of police, judge and jury.

slaughter based on the charge of the unlawful killing of Joseph Kahahawai, for which offense they were recently convicted in the territorial court at Honolulu."

NAVY BACKS APPEAL

HONOLULU, T. H., May 2.—While the Navy moved unofficially to back to its uthost the appeal of the four "honor slaying" defendants from manslaughter verdicts, the territory of Hawaii today set in motion machinery for the retrial of the half castes accused of attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie.

Territorial authorities hoped that swift action against the men accused of the brutal attack may serve to dull mainland criticism of the conviction of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, and two sailors, convicted of killing Joseph Kahahawai, accused ringleader of the gang. They are to be sentenced Friday.

CONFERENCE CALLED

A conference has been called between Prosecutor John C. Kelly, members of the Attorney General's staff and counsel for the defendants in the attack case, and it was considered likely that the retrial may start this week.

Since Mrs. Massie has expressed her willingness to take the witness stand for the third time and tell again the story of her ordeal, Kelley will probably remain on the sidelines in the retrial.

Mrs. Massie showed open antagonism toward Kelley for his prosecution of her husband and mother.

Meanwhile, the details of the appeal from the "honor slaying" conviction were worked out by Clarence Darrow and his associates, encouraged by mainland sympathy.

The Navy will lend its aid in this, according to word reaching here from Washington. Lieut. Louis H. C. Johnson, naval legal adviser associated with Darrow, said he expected to remain here indefinitely to participate in action before the Hawaiian Supreme Court.

ADMIRALS IN PARLEY

It was understood that Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, commandant of the Pearl Harbor naval base, was in communication with Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations in Washington, informing him of the attack on the Navy made by Prosecutor Kelley in his closing arguments to the "honor slaying" jury.

While refusing to comment on the case, it was learned that Rear Admiral Stirling believed that the outcome of the case may speed congressional action for a semi-military form of government for Hawaii, which he has already recommended.

Stirling recently suggested federal control of the laws of Hawaii and their enforcement because of the military importance of the islands.

Nervous tension, which has overhung Honolulu since the mixed blood jury convicted the defendants, relaxed today after a quiet week-end unmarred by disorders.

PARDON SEEN

There was a growing belief in business circles that Gov. Lawrence Judd may pardon the four Americans after their sentencing on Friday, thus bringing to an end what otherwise promises to be a long drawn-out legal battle.

The circulation of a pardon petition for the defendants, sponsored by the Citizens' Organization for Good Government, continued today.

Meantime, several leading clergymen, with mixed racial congregations, publicly voiced disapproval of the jury's verdict in the murder trial, holding that the law of humanity is greater than the man-made law of the land.

The four defendants continued today aboard the dismantled U. S. S. Alton, at Pearl Harbor. Yesterday they saw only relatives, navy friends and their attorneys.

Approval of Birth Control Rejected by Presbyterians

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—(AP)—The Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. has decided against the qualified approval of birth control contained in its "marriage commission" report which aroused [illegible] controversy in the denomination last year.

Rejection of that report is disclosed with the issuance of the "Blue Book" containing all proposals that are to come before the General Assembly when it meets in Denver late this month.

A special committee of elders and ministers, appointed to study the report titled "Marriage, Divorce and Remarriage," has replaced it with a chapter on the "Solemnization of Marriage."

The original report had approved the qualified use of birth control methods by married persons "in fidelity to the highest spiritual ideals of the Christian home."

The substitute proposal holds that marriage is an institution ordained of God but not a sacrament. There is no mention of birth control.

Jeritza Accepts Pay Cut, Gigli Scored for Quitting

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—A denial that Maria Jeritza, Austrian soprano, had quit the Metropolitan Opera Company rather than accept a 10 per cent salary cut had been issued today in behalf of Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager. He said Mme. Jeritza was one of the first to express willingness to accept the reduction.

Simultaneously, a letter signed by many Metropolitan artists, was made public condemning the action of Beniamino Gigli, the tenor, who refused to accept the reduction. Gigli handed in his contract, asserting he did so because his "dignity as an artist" would not permit him to remain. He had been with the opera company 12 years.

The letter signed by Lily Pons, Rosa Ponselle, Lucrezia Bori, Giovanni Martinelli, Leon Rothier, Grace Moore, Elisabeth Rethberg, Gladys Swarthout and others, protested against "Mr. Gigli's lack of co-operation and esprit de corps."

violation being mentioned in each count.

In the individual indictment against the Mayor reference was removed to the purchase of trucks from the Stewart Motor Company and Lang Motor Company.

In the joint indictment these references were strickenout: Purchase of tires from Penn Tire Company and Popular Supply Shop, purchase from Barnes Motor Company and C. E. Moodey Motor Company.

While these removals weakened the particular counts, there still remained one alleged violation in each.

COURTROOM CROWDED

Before a crowded courtroom the Mayor and Succop, ready to stand trial on charges of misdemeanor in office, heard one of their legal array, former Judge James M. Galbreath, argue:

"The indictment is vague, indefinite and uncertain."

In its petition for dismissal of the indictments the defense contended that the prosecution had not even charged that the Mayor had knowledge of certain of the alleged illegal purchases.

A dozen state policemen and Allegheny County detectives were guarding the courtroom and corridors. Among the early witnesses on hand were Frank L. Swaney, the Mayor's secretary; City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt; Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent of Mayview Hospital; Joseph I. McDonough, chief clerk, Department of Welfare; John Schilpp, deputy controller, and J. P. Hilldorfer, wholesale meat dealer.

TWO APPROACHED

Trial preliminaries were a surprise, especially since it was revelation of the first jury-tampering plot which caused a postponement in March. For that alleged plot eight persons were indicted.

At least two members of the new panel of 60 have been approached in this latest tampering plot, according to District Attorney Negley, whose office made informations against McBride and Flick. State police were called into the investigation today along with Allegheny County detectives and special investigators for the Citizens' Committee. Capt. Jacob C. Mauk, commander of Troop D, with headquarters here, revealed that the District Attorney's office requested a detail be assigned to the investigations.

McBride, arrested Saturday afternoon by County Detective Haydee Hepley and Constable Lawrence Keister, of Butler, is alleged to have made the contact with two prospective jurors for Flick, who is supposed to have had a Pittsburgh connection.

At the Flick home in Bakerstown, Hepler and the constable met with resistance from Flick, his wife and two sons, they reported, when they sought to arrest the real estate agent. Hepler, in his report to District Attorney Negley, said Flick attempted to destroy some papers in his pocket.

Grabbing the papers from his coat, Hepler said, Flick called to his wife to destroy them, keeping the officers out of reach. The real estate agent, according to Hepler, threw the papers to his wife, and both officers, the wife and Flick's two sons scrambled for them.

RECOVER CHECK

The officers said they succeeded in getting part of a list of prospective jurors, the envelope of a letter and a $75 check made out to Flick by a Pittsburgh attorney. Mrs. Flick, Hepler reported, burned the other half of the jury list and the contents of the envelope. The struggle ended when Hepler struck Flick with a blackjack.

Mrs. Flick today denied any part in the affair, saying she did not know what it was all about until the officers took her husband away.

Attempts were made to keep the arrest of Flick and McBride quiet until after the trial had started, District Attorney Negley explaining that he feared if a tampering plot were revealed, the case might be again postponed. District Attorney Andrew T. Park, of Allegheny County, asked whether he intended to go ahead with the trial, declared:

"I hope there will be no more delay. I cannot see why there should be a continuance of the case."

Judge Finletter, interviewed in his segregated quarters in the Penn Butler Hotel, declined to discuss the case before the trial.

District Attorney Park was flanked by a corps of assistants, including Ralph H. Phillips, Georg F. P. Langfitt, Special Assistant Prosecutor Earle F. Reed, Citizens' Committee counsel, and Reed's law partner, W. D. Stewart. None of the prosecution attorneys would discuss the jury tampering, nor would any of Kline's or Succop's counsel.

The defendants were represented by Charles B. Prichard, Edward G. Coll and Edward Kearns. Succop was accompanied by his brother, H. W. Succop. No one accompanied Kline.

Connecticut Boasts Big Cash Balance

HARTFORD, Conn.—(INS.)—Other states may be worrying about their finances, but not Connecticut. State Treasurer Roy Wilcox recently announced the state could liquidate its entire outstanding debt, not due until 1936, and still have $22,900 left in its debt retirement account.

KLINE, SUCCOP FACE 49 COUNTS

Mayor Charles H. Kline and his deposed supplies director, Bertram L. Succop, were indicted in this county June 25, 1931, following a controller's investigation into city purchasing. They were indicted jointly on 45 counts. The Mayor was indicted individually on three counts, and Succop on one.

Mayor Kline and Succop are charged in numerous counts with letting contracts for goods without bids or to other than low bidders. Supplies said to have been purchased in this manner included furniture, rugs, automobiles, coal, canned goods, rubber hose and sand.

'TRICK BIDS'

The letting of contracts for meats on trick bids is alleged in 24 instances. In this case the low bidder bid as low as one cent a pound for sirloins, never accepted, and as high as 70 cents a pound for veal cutlets, which were ordered.

The individual counts against Mayor Kline include a large rug purchased without bids for $1,950 for his office in the City-County Building. This purchase was later approved by ordinance of City Council and a warrant authorized by Council for its payment.

Mayor Kline is also accused of purchasing two other rugs without bids and letting a contract for three trucks without bids.

BIDDER ASSAILED

Succop is indicted on one count individually. It involves the purchase of supplies from A. Nathanson and Samuel Adler, and charges that Succop knew that the bids were being made for the Marcus Company, which firm he is alleged to have known was not a responsible bidder. Two men by the name of A. Nathanson testified at the grand jury proceedings.

M. C. Conick, auditor for Main & Company, will be an important witness for the Commonwealth. Conick supervised the investigation of city records which disclosed the alleged irregularities. The records to which he will testify are being brought to Butler today.

JURY TAKES UP 500 CASES

Approximately 500 cases are to be considered by the May grand jury, which went to work today after being charged by President Judge Elder W. Marshall in Criminal Court. The jury consists of 13 women and 5 men. Louis J. Heinbuecher, 38, a machinist, of 321 Evergreen road, was named foreman.

Although in his charge Judge Marshall did not indicate anything unusual would come before the jury, District Attorney Andrew T. Park has indicated that he may ask this jury to investigate wholesale distribution of tax receipts.

Church Service Held Under Burned Roof

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 2.—(AP.)—Fire yesterday damaged St. Rita's Roman Catholic Church to the extent of $30,000. The blaze started in the sacristy and ate through the roof. After the blaze had been extinguished the Rev. Eugene Kozar, of Pittsburgh, here to conduct a mission, proceeded with the service, though the sun shone through gaping holes in the roof and dripping water soaked his vestments.

Mayor Kline Doffs Spats For Trial; Jokes While Posing for Pictures

BUTLER, Pa., May 2.

The Nixon Hotel presented a strange picture on the eve of the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline, of Pittsburgh, and Bertram L. Succop. On one floor the Mayor, Succop and numerous lawyers were huddled together for one of those before-the-battle conferences.

On another floor Park and another aggregation of attorneys were figuring ways and means. And in still another section a convention of newspapermen was trying to figure out what both sides were figuring.

Down in the Penn-Butler was a lone but important figure, genial Judge Finletter.

The Mayor was in excellent humor and even the bellhops commented on his improved appearance over that of six weeks ago. Both he and Succop willingly posed for pictures with each other—which would seem to indicate that relations between them are not so strained as when Succop is supposed to have said, "I'll not be the goat."

His Honor chided the newspapermen while he was looking at the camera. In mocking fashion he recited, as if reading from the latest edition:

"Mayor Kline and His Deposed Supplies Director, B. L. Succop, arrived in Butler today and . . ."

The Mayor, incidentally, was not wearing his spats.

Zeno Henninger is by years the youngest of the Mayor's lawyers. He is a son of the late Judge Henninger, who wasted no sympathy on violators of the liquor laws.

President Hoover perhaps will be interested to learn that the presidential suite in the Nixon is being occupied by newspapermen. It was the only thing left when they arrived.

It's a three-to-one bet that Succop will listen to any orders given him during the trial by his counsel, Col. Kearns. During the late war Kearns was Succop's superior officer in the 28th Division.

The jury undoubtedly will be locked up during the trial. A wing of the Nixon Hotel has been partitioned off, the better to protect them from possible intrusion.

TOWANDA, Kan., May 2.—(AP.)—Ina May Bloir, 12, was crushed to death yesterday beneath a plane piloted by her cousin, Mrs. Harriet Barrett, which crashed after striking a telephone wire. Mrs. Barrett was injured. The girl and other friends had gathered to welcome the aviatrix on her arrival here to visit her mother.

Boy Trips Over Rope, Drowns in Ohio River

MIDLAND, Pa., May 2.—Joseph Migliore, 12, of Midland, was drowned in the Ohio River here yesterday when he tripped over a rope running from a towboat and plunged into the water. The body was recovered 45 minutes later. He was fishing with several other boys when the accident occurred.

LICHTY, NOTED DOCTOR, DIES

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., May 2.—(AP.)—Dr. John Alden Lichty, 66, widely known medical authority and medical superintendent of the Clifton Springs Sanitarium and Clinic since 1923, died today after a long illness.

Dr. Lichty came here from Pennsylvania, where at one time he was a member of the State Commission on Lunacy. At the time of his death he was a regent of the American College of Physicians and Surgeons.

He was born at Meyersdale, Somerset County, Pa., and educated at Mt. Hope College, the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Berlin. On December 11, 1894, he married Dr. Cora Lane Stoner, of Greensburg, Pa.

Dr. Lichty is survived by his widow, two sons, John A. and Joseph Stoner Lichty, medical students, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary D. Lissfelt, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Marjorie E. Lamb, of Niagara Falls, Ont.

HOOVER CAMP DESTITUTE TO MOVE

Penniless, Backward Group Near Rapidan Resort to Be Given New Site for Homes

SKYLAND, Va., May 2.—(AP.)—The folks of Corbin Hollow—a community of perennial starvation and penniless squalor within a dozen miles of President Hoover's Rapidan camp—are about to come into something more than their own.

A plan to move the community, rooted since the Revolutionary War, to a new section of the mountains has been virtually agreed upon between federal and state officials.

WILBUR INVESTIGATES

Secretary Wilbur rode into the hollow over the week-end accompanied by Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service, Dr. R. Lyman Sexton, of Washington, and Miss Miriam Sizer, a social worker.

They found six families living in the hollow, all named Corbin or Nicholson. All the adults are cousins. The children of sisters and brothers are inter-married. They speak a queer, Chaucerian English, almost un-understandable. They say "holpen" for "to help," and "withouten" for "without."

Dr. Sexton reported that the use of soap was almost unknown to them and that many suffered from malnutrition and tuberculosis.

CHILDREN UNEDUCATED

Miss Sizer said all of the children up to 20 years of age would be in the first grade except two.

Corbin Hollow is within the limits of the new Shenandoah National Park. In order not only to aid the Corbins and the Nicholsons, but also to clear the park, the plan of providing a plot for them near a mountain mission was advanced. Wilbur said:

"No matter what is done with these people, they will be better off. They have nothing to lose."

FIGHT FOR NAVY UP TO TREATY

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP.)—A drive for legislation to permit building the Navy up to treaty limits was opened in the Senate today by Chairman Hale, of the Naval Committee.

Urging the Senate to take up for consideration his bill to authorize a Navy as big as the Washington and London treaties permit, Hale cited figures to show that this country's fleet is falling behind those of other nations.

He said that by the end of the London treaty in 1936 the United States will have only 68 of the 200 modern ships allowed by the treaties at the present rate of construction.

Japan, if she finishes those now authorized and appropriated for, will have 156 out of the 163 allowed by the treaties, he said. Great Britain will have 120, France 153 and Italy 115.

Kline Trial Witness Ill, Won't Appear

Abraham Nathanson, said to be an important witness in the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline, will be unable to appear, it was reported to District Attorney Andrew T. Park. County Detective Edward Weber, detailed to locate Nathanson, said he was dangerously ill at New Kensington General Hospital.

SENATE BOOSTS TELEPHONE, WORT TAXES

General Admission Levy Approved; Exemptions Lowered to Hit Movies

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP.)—In a series of changes in the House tax bill, the Senate Finance Committee today picked up new revenue by increasing the levy on brewers' wort and slashing away exemptions from the telephone and telegraph levies.

The general admission tax of 10 per cent was approved, and the exemption on this was lowered from 46 to 45 cents to make sure of getting the 50-cent movie admissions.

GAMES ESCAPE

Intercollegiate games and the forthcoming Olympic games to be held at Los Angeles escaped the admissions levy.

Radio and newspaper wires were brought under the terms of the leased wire tax by the committee, which cut the House rate of 10 per cent to 5 per cent.

The House increase of the tax on bond issues from 5 cents a $100 to 10 cents was approved. An exemption was voted from this tax to purchasers of bonds which must be paid for on installments.

The vexing stock transfer levy is up for an early vote.

By boosting the tax on brewers' wort another 5 cents a gallon, the commission estimated to get in $68,000,000 above the revenue provided under the House rate of 5 cents a gallon. The committee today made the rate 15 cents.

Exemptions from the telephone and telegraph tax were raised from 30 to 50 cents but the House rates were then increased.

ECONOMY BILL

Meanwhile, the Democratic leadership planned a drive to complete House action on the economy bill by late Tuesday or Wednesday.

A vigorous contest is expected tomorrow over the veterans' provisions in the measure designed to save $48,714,000.

Chairman McDuffie said the economy committee planned to have the House dispose of the veterans' provisions as quickly as possible, at the same time conceding they were highly controversial.

McDuffie said only those veterans who were able to take care of themselves would be affected by the provisions of the economy bill.

TARDIEU POWER CUT IN POLL

PARIS, May 2.—(AP.)—The support of the government of Premier Andre Tardieu was shown to have slipped today, as returns from yesterday's election were completed. Former Premier Edouard Herriot, M. Tardieu's chief opponent, at Lyons, said:

"I counted on victory and it is one. It is a strongly-marked swing to the Left."

With returns from the 615 districts almost completed, the Ministry of the Interior issued a tabulation today showing that candidates in 244 districts were chosen and candidates in 359 more must go into the run-off election next Sunday, having failed to secure a clear majority.

Of the seats which must again be contested, 190 were normally government supporters, 150 normally supporters of the opposition and the rest independent.

Premier Tardieu himself was re-elected, as were most of the important members of his cabinet.

The Radical Socialists, a strong opposition party, made a net gain of four seats, while Premier Tardieu's Left Republicans lost the most—eight seats—gaining only one from the others.

M. E.'S TO PICK NEW BISHOPS AT MEETING

General Conference Opens At Atlantic City; Divorce, Marriage Debate Indicated

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 2.—(AP.) Selection of several new bishops will be one of the important tasks of the thirty-first delegated quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which convened today.

The new bishops will take the place of those who have died since the conference in Kansas City four years ago and the three who will retire by age.

The three retiring are Bishop William F. McDowell, Washington; Bishop William F. Anderson, Boston, and Bishop Thomas Nicholson, Detroit.

EIGHT VACANCIES

Altogether there are eight episcopal vacancies, but it is considered probable the conference will elect only four of the new bishops, reducing the number of areas requiring episcopal supervision. The Helena, Mont., area, the Korean episcopate and the Paris areas are mentioned as the three most likely to be eliminated.

Among the clerics most prominently mentioned for election to bishoprics are the Rev. Dr. J. C. Hartman, editor of the Methodist Weekly, published in Boston; the Rev. Dr. Joseph M. Gray of Detroit, Mich., and the Rev. Dr. Ralph McGee, superintendent of the Seattle (Wash.) district.

The entire system of denominational machinery is listed for discussion. Of the more important changes advocated by some groups, there is a movement to have bishops elected for a term of four or eight years instead of for life.

The possibility of changes in the church's attitude on divorce and in the marriage and burial services will depend on committee action on the new points proposed.

Committee action will also determine the fate of a memorial to have the name of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church changed to a little more descriptive of the organization's aims and work.

Cleveland Minister Comes to Bellevue

The Rev. Herbert B. Hudnut, pastor of the Windermere Presbyterian Church, East Cleveland, O., has accepted the call of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church and will assume his new duties June 1, according to announcement to the congregation yesterday. He succeeds Dr. R. F. Galbreath, who resigned to become president of Westminster College.

Religious Curb Held Peril by Atterbury

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—(AP.)—Organized religion is a most powerful safeguard of the sanity and soundness of our national life," W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, declares in a letter to Bishop Francis M. Taitt, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania, made public today.

He further asserted that forces which are at work against religion must be looked upon as a common enemy of both religion and sound industry, which if it destroys one makes certain the destruction of the other.

CALIFORNIA'S VOTE TESTS ROOSEVELT

New Yorker's Candidacy May Stand or Fall on Fateful Primary Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP.)—Political contests this week are overshadowed by California's fateful Democratic primary which tomorrow may come near making or breaking the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Political leaders await its decision between Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and John N. Garner, in a suspense rivaling that which preceded last week's overwhelming victory for Smith in Massachusetts and the rather undecisive Smith-Roosevelt contest in Pennsylvania.

Should the New York Governor lose in California, his rush to win the nomination will be almost certain of defeat, and the selection of a presidential choice will rest upon the unpredictable action of the Democratic convention.

Before this contest is settled President Hoover, in the Republican camp, will have had it out squarely with the one man who seeks to dispute his otherwise clear road to renomination. In Maryland, former Senator Joseph I. France's home ground, a preferential primary today will record a popular choice between him and the President. A convention later will select delegates, not bound by the preferential vote.

Also it was expected that today's Democratic convention in Rhode Island will pick 10 delegates friendly to, if not instructed for, Alfred E. Smith. The Maryland Democratic primary will lead to selection of 16 Democratic delegates for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie.

Roosevelt stands to pick up tomorrow 20 to 24 convention votes in Alabama and 10 in South Dakota, both states holding primaries.

Socialist-Labor Party Names Ticket

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.)—Verne L. Reynolds, a former steamfitter, was nominated yesterday by the Socialist-Labor party as its candidate for President of the United States. J. W. Aiken, of Boston, was nominated for Vice President.

Reynolds, the candidate for Vice President in 1928, in his acceptance address foresaw a "golden opportunity" for the Socialist-Labor party in the coming elections. The party's platform, as in past years, demanded the abolition of private ownership in favor of collective ownership and control of property.

Roosevelt Drops Politics at Resort

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., May 2.—(AP.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, stuck to his announced program of plenty of rest and no politics during the first week-end of his spring vacation here.

"I don't usually gossip, but—"

"I DON'T MEAN this unkindly—you know I rarely gossip—but can't you give her a hint? She is so strange about some things. The way she wears her lingerie two or three days without a change! Every one perspires a little—doesn't she realize how easy it is to offend?"

ALL DAY underthings absorb perspiration acids and odors. That penetrating hint is so noticeable to others, before you're aware of it yourself. Don't take chances that may cost you romance or a job.

There's one sure way to know you are fresh and sweet! Lux is made to remove these unpleasant acids and odors completely, yet gently, so that colors and fabrics are never harmed.

And it takes only 4 minutes or less. Don't take chances! Follow this dainty habit—Lux underthings and stockings after every wearing.

Avoid Offending—underthings absorb perspiration odor. Protect daintiness this way:

1 Wash this 4-minute way. One tablespoon of Lux does one day's undies . . . stockings, too! Use lukewarm water—Lux dissolves instantly in it. Squeeze suds through fabric, rinse twice.

2 Wash after each wearing, for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot threads. Lux removes perspiration acids and odors completely—leaves colors and fabrics like new.

3 Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap. Rubbing tends to streak and wear out silk.

TWO SCIENTISTS SPLIT ATOM

(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

LONDON, May 2.—A dream of scientists, the splitting of the atom, has been realized by two British physical researchers working in the Cavendish Laboratory at Cambridge University, Lord Ernest Rutherford, director of the laboratory and one of England's most famed savants, told Universal Service today.

With an electric force of 100,000 volts, Dr. J. D. Cockcroft and E. T. S. Walton shattered the atom and obtained energy equivalent to 16,000,000 volts, Lord Rutherford said. He added that the details of the experiment, which was three years in the making, must remain secret for the present.

Sir Ernest said:

"The experiment opens the way to revolutionary possibilities, but it is too early to speak of its practical application, such as the development of energy and the transmutation of all elements.

"As to transmutation of elements (such as lead into gold), that must await experiments that will determine whether any but the simplest atoms are capable of splitting."

HOOVER PLEADS FOR JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—Justice was described today by President Hoover as "the safest cornerstone upon which peoples may erect the entire social organization."

The chief executive made this statement in a message to the American Conference on Institutions for the Establishment of International Justice which met here today at the call of the American Peace Society. The President said:

"The only assurance of the equal protection of all in the enjoyment of their rights is justice and with justice assured, nations would have little to fear for their safety or their peace."

Earlier, Frederick H. Payne, Assistant Secretary of War, told the conference that "permanent harm" to America's defense structure would result if it were further reduced.

AUTO SEIZURES FOR RUM LEGAL

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today ruled that automobiles used in importing liquor into the United States are subject to confiscation under the tariff law and the government is not required to take action against them under the more lenient prohibition law.

At about the same time the court passed upon two similar cases. It held that an American vessel seized for transporting liquor could be confiscated under the navigation laws and that a vessel seized by the Coast Guard while bringing liquor into the country could be confiscated under the tariff law.

Would Broaden Rail Labor Query

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS)—The Railway Labor Executives Association today petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to broaden its six-hour day study to include express and sleeping car companies.

New Bid Schedule Urged in Contract

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Leading members of the Whist Club, of New York, and Portland Club, of London, today considered important changes in the scoring of contract bridge as proposed by Harold S. Vanderbilt, author of the present scoring system.

The changes are designed to meet criticism that sacrifice bids by a non-vulnerable side are not penalized heavily enough.

DRIVE PLEASES FATHER COX

Yesterday was the most intensive day to date in the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery Drive in which the "father of the jobless" gets a liberal commission on every new order secured for this newspaper. Father Cox talked about it on the radio, many pastors announced it from the pulpit in the Catholic churches and subscription cards were distributed to parishioners throughout Pittsburgh.

Father Cox

Father Cox is immensely pleased with the results of the drive to date because it will bring to him urgently needed funds for his relief activities with the unemployed. It will help to feed from 2,500 to 3,000 unfortunate in his daily breadline at Old St. Patrick's and will also help to furnish baskets of food for hundreds of Pittsburgh families in distress.

If you wish to help Father Cox send in your order, either to Father Cox or to the Sun-Telegraph, to have this paper delivered to your home by carrier. A subscription blank will be found in this issue.

Police said Gentile accused Angelini of swindling him.

Operates So Cobra Can Shed All Skin

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, who knows about snakes, performed a delicate operation on the eye of a cobra at Bronx Zoo yesterday so that the reptile could shed its skin all over.

He coaxed the snake into a small box of wire netting, fastened it in a vice made of felt and went to work on the right eye cap. Seven layers of skin—one for each of the last seven sheddings—were removed and the difficulty was adjusted.

New York Teacher Would Drop Most Arithmetic

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—Eighty-five per cent of the arithmetical instruction to school pupils should be eliminated in the opinion of Dr. Robert K. Speer, of New York University. He regards most of it "dead wood." In a speech over the National Broadcasting System last night, Dr. Speer said:

"Who cares if children are not proficient in complex fractions, arithmetical ratios, foreign exchange, arithmetical and geometrical progression, involution, square and cubic root?

"The fact of the matter is that a lot of the school curriculum, including arithmetic, is dead wood—some of it is retained on the now disproved, and unfortunately not wholly discarded theory of mental discipline."

Capital's May Day Honors Mother Jones

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS)—Labor leaders and members of Congress joined last night in honoring the memory of "Mother Jones," as the Capital's May Day demonstration. Senator Henry D. Hatfield, of West Virginia, a former governor of that state, was the chief speaker in a program broadcast over a national radio hookup.

Mother Jones spent her life battling for the coal miners, and waged some of her most dogged fights in the fields of Hatfield's state.

McCanns Flavor festival

The proof of good food is in the eating!

HOW often have you been disappointed in the way a food tasted when judging from appearances or sales talk, it should have been the best you ever ate? Flavor's the thing in food: the way butter tastes on bread . . . the way coffee tastes in the cup . . . the way an egg tastes when boiled or poached!

At McCann's it is your privilege to taste before you buy. Haven't you noticed the plates of little crackers here and there about the store inviting you to stop and sample? Some wih butter! Some with cheese! Some with dressing! Some with peanut butter!

Regular McCann customers seldom sample. They know through experience that they can depend on the flavor of McCann's butter, McCann's eggs, McCann's coffee . . . on any or all the foods purchased in the store "for absolutely reliability." But when something looks good and you'd like to find out how it tastes before you buy, don't hesitate to ask the clerk who waits on you for a sample. We want you to buy by taste at McCann's.

This week tasting will be made easier than ever! Everything we sell that can possibly be tasted in the store will be proffered for your approval, for we know as well as you that . . .

HINDENBURG'S KIN HEIRESS

CHICAGO, May 2.—(INS.)—Happy over her discovery that she is the grand-niece of President Paul von Hinderberg, of Germany, Mrs. Marie Meehl prepared today to depart immediately for California to rejoin a long-lost brother and claim her share of a $500,000 inheritance.

After a prolonged and arduous nation-wide search, Mrs. Meehl was finally located by letter in Chicago by her brother, Seawell Augustus Auerswald, whose home is in Redwood City, Cal.

The letter from her brother said that the mother of Auerswald and Mrs. Meehl was married 32 years ago to a German newspaper writer who was a nephew of Von Hindenberg. Mrs. Meehl, who was Clarissa Bona Auerswald, was born in Germany 29 years ago. The family moved to California, where Seawell was born in 1905.

The father died in 1909, the mother died seven years later, and Clarissa was placed in a Los Angeles orphanage. Auerswald, who was reared by the Salvation Army in Los Angeles, said he had not seen his sister since she was placed in the orphanage.

75,000 ENLIST IN NEW 'KLAN'

CHICAGO, May 2.—(INS.)—Edward Young Clarke, of Atlanta, formerly Imperial Keagle of the Ku Klux Klan, today said that 75,000 members in 38 states have already been enlisted in his new organization to be known as Esskaye, Inc.

Clarke has established headquarters in Chicago for the organization whose object, he announced, will be to seek passage of a congressional legislative program designed to restore prosperity and to combat atheism.

For a fee of $300, Clarke said, a "founder" membership can be obtained in the organization, while other memberships can be acquired for $10. The "rank and file" members, he explained, are subject to dismissal from the society by a vote of one or more of the "founders."

Clarke announced the organization hopes to enlist 15,000,000 members.

The Better Business Bureau has begun an inquiry of the new organization, it was announced.

CHINESE REBEL BATTLES GROW

TOKIO, May 2.—(AP.)—Japanese military forces and Chinese rebels battled over a wide area in Northern and Eastern Manchuria today.

A Japanese brigade under Maj. Gen. Murai fought a 24-hour battle with 3,000 rebels near Wukimiho which resulted in a victory for the Japanese. Reports said there were 30 casualties.

The Chinese retreated northward. They used machine guns and mortars and took advantage of the heavy forests as screens.

At the Unhua end of the Kirin-Tunhua branch of the railway rebel bands, numbering several thousand men, most of them followers of Gen. Wang Teh-Lin, threatened to surround the city.

Boy Slashes Man For Beating Mother

Lloyd Butler, 38, Negro, of 1845 Wylie avenue, was in the Passavant Hospital today in serious condition after being slashed on the face by Julius Davis, 12, Negro, of the same address, police said. They reported the boy attacked Butler after he beat the boy's mother, Mrs. Georgia Davis, in her home.

Six Negro suspects were held today by North Side police in connection with an attack on Edward Wyarett, 23, Negro, of 1927 Sedgewick street, in a Sturgeon street house. Wyarett is in the Allegheny General Hospital with stab wounds.

SEEK 2 CADETS; CANOE FOUND

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 2 (AP.)—Two second-year cadets of the United States Military Academy were missing today following upon the discovery of their overturned canoe in the Hudson River. The students are Alan J. Light, of Washington, D. C., and Leo A. Skeim, whose nearest relative is listed as Mrs. Russell Needham, Valley City, N. D.

The cadets set out in a canoe Saturday and were last seen near Bannerman's Island, north of the academy, headed toward Storm King Mountain. A strong wind was whipping the river.

Their canoe was discovered drifting upside down near Newburgh early Sunday. Word of the discovery did not reach the Military Academy until yesterday, more than 24 hours after the cadets set out on the river.

An Army amphibian plane piloted by Lieut. J. M. Welkert, cruised up and down from Bannerman's Island northward, while canoe squads manned by fellow cadets explored the river edges and land patrols scouted along both banks.

BEAUTY TURNS EVANGELIST

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Edith Mae Pennington, who first came into the public eye when she won a national beauty contest in 1921, was in New York today to save some souls.

Mrs. Pennington, who described herself as a "simple soul and a wanderer," who doesn't imitate other women evangelists, but just goes around "saving souls," opened a two weeks' revival in a West Thirty-third street tabernacle.

After her first sermon, in which she gave her version of the story of David and Goliath, Mrs. Pennington told reporters:

"The first thing you must understand is that I never wore a bathing suit in the beauty contest. I was in street attire all the time I appeared before the judges. And my title wasn't 'Miss America,' it was 'The Most Beautiful Girl in the Country'."

It was while playing in the movies, she said, that "God put his hand on my shoulder."

3 FOUND SLAIN IN HOME

QUINCY, Mass., May 2.—(AP.)—Three persons were found shot to death yesterday in the home of Edward W. Dutton here. They were Dutton, 68, his wife, Mrs. Ida May Dutton, 62, and his stepdaughter, Mrs. Willington Bartell, 38, divorcee.

An old-fashioned revolver containing five loaded cartridges and one discharged cartridge was found in Dutton's hand. Dr. Frederick E. Jones, medical examiner, said he believed it double murder and suicide. He and the police were puzzled by failure to find any discharged cartridges in addition to that in the revolver.

The shooting was discovered by 6-year-old Willington Bartell, son of one of the victims. His mother apparently had been shot while in the back yard, whence a trail of blood led to the kitchen, where her body was found.

Knights Will Honor Cardinal Gibbons

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP.)—A statue to the late James Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore, will be unveiled here in August at the golden anniversary convention of the Knights of Columbus, which 50,000 delegates and visitors are to attend.

The statue, by Leo Lentelli, was selected by a committee headed by the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, archbishop of Baltimore. It will be erected in front of the shrine of the Sacred Heart.

Police Trap Fatal To Holdup Suspect

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—(AP.)—A police trap to frustrate an attempted robbery of a downtown candy store, that had been visited by holdup men several times recently, caused the death yesterday of James Ryan, 30, identified by police as a former convict at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan. Inspector Robert Rauer shot and killed him.

Dragged From Auto, Beaten, Man Says

Declaring that he had been beaten by two men who dragged him from an automobile in Greentree road early today, Mike Yesage, 40, of 432 Fourth avenue, applied for treatment at Allegheny General Hospital. Yesage was accompanied by a woman companion.

Foreign Wars Vets To Hold Election

SCHOOLBOY, 14, TAKES POISON

Max Levine, 14, a ward in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sloan, of 817 Deely street, Greenfield, was recovering in [illegible] Homeopathic Hospital today from the effects of a poison [illegible] said to have taken last night [illegible] Sloan home after leaving a [illegible] in which he said he was tired of living.

Mrs. Sloan said the boy was sent to her home by the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies two months ago. She said he had had some "trouble," but she refused to discuss it. The boy is a student at the Allderdice Junior High School.

Last night he went to his room, Mrs. Sloan said, and shortly afterward was found on the stairway by her son, Ray, with an empty bottle in his hand. At the hospital it was said his condition was not serious.

HOLD NUDISTS AFTER BATTLE

NELSON, B. C., May 2.—(AP.)—British Columbia police used itch powder and short lengths of garden hose as weapons yesterday when they encountered 200 Doukhobers on parade at Thrums, 16 miles from Nelson. Authorities arrested 117 men and women.

The Doukhobers, many of them were nude, fought back savagely. They turned several streams of water on the officers.

The police sprang clear of the water and sprayed the powder on the exposed bodies of the men and women, finally herding them into an orchard where they were held until trucks arrived to bring them here.

The prisoners consisted of 33 women and 84 men. They will be arraigned during the week. Persons guilty of parading in the nude are liable to three years' imprisonment.

DONOHOE DEATH SHELLS SOUGHT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 2.—If there are any shells in "murder lane," the scene of the John F. Donohoe murder in July, 1929, Jim Fike, owner of the magnet which brought the gun said to have been used in the slaying out of the Monongahela River, believes they can be located by his indicator. He is ready to experiment with the small compass-like instrument today or Tuesday. He says the indicator will move about as pieces of metal are approached within several feet.

At the spot where Tony Bell said R. C. Bledsoe fired the fatal slugs into Donohoe's body, the ground has been spaded and sifted in the search for the shells. State police and others have dug for two days. It is now hoped that Fike will find the shells.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 2.—(AP.)—James Cagney, red-haired star of the Warner Brothers-First National studios, says he has definitely decided to quit films, take another turn at vaudeville in Europe and then study medicine.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Nagging Man Is Worse Than Woman of That Type

Have you a bigger and better nagger in your home?

Or—are you maybe one yourself?

Do you fuss and fume and object to everything, no matter how much pains people take to please you?

Then tune in on Bina, and get a close-up of what life with a nagger is like. She can tell you plenty, and none of it pleasant.

Is her picture of the big boy a picture of you? Maybe it isn't; but it's a picture that plenty of folks will recognize with big, wet sobs of sympathy and a longing to get out the ax.

"Dear Miss Martin—

"Being a constant reader of your column, I'd like to ask for a little advice, along with the rest of the people who come to you.

"I have been married a little over two years now, and during nearly all that time I held a very good position, which I had had for almost 14 years. But lately our firm let me out, so I am now looking for work.

"My husband doesn't make much money, and I try to keep a very strict budget so we can get along on it; but it seems that no matter what I do in his estimation I am always wrong.

"If I go down to look for a position, I am spending car fare and lunch money 'for nothing.' If I go to visit a girl friend, I am 'gadding around.' If I go out for a walk in the afternoon, I am 'bumming around.' If, and whatever, I cook or bake, it is never right.

ALWAYS DISAPPROVES

"The housework I do never meets with his approval, no matter how clean I keep things, and if I do say so myself, I do keep our three-room apartment as spick and span as any place could be kept. I always did even when I was working.

"But according to him, I just can't do or say anything right without his 'perfect' guidance; and when I try to do what I think he wants, he wants something else.

"I guess most people will agree with me that if there is anything worse than a nagging woman, it is a nagging man.

"Won't you help me? I am simply beside myself, and I wouldn't be surprised if one of these days I did something pretty desperate.

"Because, you know, a person can stand just so much, and then be all fed up. Why on earth is he like that, anyway? And what can I do about it?

"Bina."

Why is he like that? I suspect it is because he is secretly very unsatisfied with himself, but he won't admit it even to himself, so he's trying to make himself feel big and important by belittling.

MUST BE PATIENT

Belittling is a great game, Bina. Almost any goof can puff himself up by doing it—by pretending to himself and the world that "everyone is out of step but Jim." And I suspect that's what your big hombre is doing.

Then should you stand for it? Not another day, my dear. But remember, you can't make folks over by dynamiting them. It took years of secret hurt and despair to turn him into a nagger. It will take some months of love and encouragement to cure him of being one.

Show him that love. Give him that encouragement. Tell him he's your man, and that you believe in him and want to help him, but make him see that he'll have to work with you and not against you, and that he's alienating his best friend when he cheapens you.

Try by words and actions, to make him see that, Bina. Be patient with him, as you'd be with a hurt child, which he is. And then, if that doesn't cure him—

Walk out on him!

Nothing discourages a nagger like losing his audience.

To Win a Quarrel Is Small Triumph, But to Avoid One Is Great Victory—Fay King

By FAY KING

One word leads to another, and cross words grow more and more bitter.

Arguments from misunderstanding can begin quite fairly and calmly, but too often end in a fatal fight.

Changing the subject or retiring into a harmless silence is the very best move that can be made.

No matter how brilliant the barrage of words may be, or even how justifiable the reason for them at the time, it is better to lose an argument than to lose good will and friendship which are more precious and not easily regained.

The time to be pleasant or silent is when you have reason to be otherwise.

To win a quarrel is a small triumph, but to avoid a quarrel is a very great victory!

Household Hints

Don't forget the popcorn popper and popcorn when you go camping.

Wash leather well with warm water and soap and rinse in a clean lather made of fresh soapy water.

A teaspoonful of powdered gelatine, dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of hot water and then allowed to cool, is an excellent substitute for white of egg.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Acknowledging Notes of Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it customary to acknowledge cards expressing sympathy which are received after the death of a member of one's family?

2. If so, how soon should they be sent. READER.

1. Yes. Some member of the family, or some members of the family, should be nominated to write notes of acknowledgment of these kind expressions of sympathy and friendliness.

2. When these notes are sent depends on circumstances and the convenience of the family. Naturally, a person under these circumstances does not feel much like writing notes. But, on the other hand, the notes need not be long, and if the work is divided it need not be especially onerous. If some are written every day, they will soon be dispatched and the friends who have been so kind will know that their kindness has been appreciated.

The Combination Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a much-discussed topic, will you kindly answer this question? Is it proper to use the combination card . . . Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Robinson . . . for calling? READER.

Yes, it is correct to use this double card for paying formal calls. It is also, as you know, sent with a wedding present, with flowers as messengers of our sympathy to a funeral and with flowers to a debutante's party.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Be Too Lazy to Take Proper Care of Your Health

Lack of elimination is the most common disorder of mankind. It is estimated that 85 per cent of Americans are affected by it. The increase in the prevalence of this condition has been attributed to our modern methods of living.

Dr. Copeland

The disorder is more serious than is commonly believed. Extreme patience and training of the bowel are necessary to cure this undesirable condition. Pills and home-made remedies may give temporary relief, but they do not cure.

Constipation is not a disease, but a symptom of an abnormal condition. It may be a factor in serious diseases, such as appendicitis, gall bladder and kidney infections. Lack of exercise, high pressure living, eating highly concentrated foods and faulty posture are a few of the causes of constipation. I believe that the most important cause is laziness or negligence of the daily practice of elimination. This soon develops into a habit which, if neglected, is difficult to correct.

Most authorities agree that the habit is usually started in early childhood. It is advised that proper training in this matter should begin in infancy. In earliest infancy the function is performed automatically, but as the child grows older he learns that it is possible to ignore or postpone the call of nature.

The habit of regular elimination is easily developed in children. Its importance in relation to general health should never be overlooked.

Many persons suffer from constipation because they do not get sufficient exercise. The muscles of the body become weak if they are inactive. Similarly, the muscles of the bowel become weakened, act sluggishly and produce constipation. Exercise benefits the general health of these individuals and aids in correcting the condition.

If you have not been accustomed to exercise, remember that severe exercising is dangerous. Start in a moderate way and increase gradually, depending upon your age and physical condition. I can think of no better form of exercise than walking, which tends to overcome constipation, helps the circulation, stimulates the appetite and improves digestion.

To form a regular habit it is best to set aside a definite time each day for the elimination, and ample time should be allowed. The best time is after breakfast. During the night refuse matter accumulates in the large intestine, and the morning meal starts contraction waves which should lead to its expulsion. Never ignore this call.

The diet should contain an abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables, also whole-wheat bread. Prunes, apricots and figs are beneficial. Abundant water should be drunk between meals. Avoid all fried and greasy foods. All food should be thoroughly and carefully chewed before swallowing.

Please bear in mind that constipation is not a condition to be overlooked. Its correction is of the utmost importance for good health.

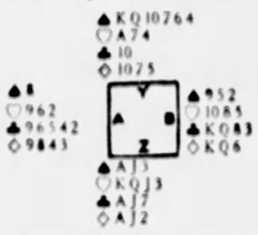
OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Planning Ahead

Able card analysts and strategists are rare. The former can at once grasp the vital feature of a hand, even without playing it. The latter can detect the salient points through the bidding, fall of the cards, or even by noting what opponents fail to do. The majority of able players are more opportunists than they are either analysts or strategists; they note the errors of opponents and profit by them; the analyst sees from the first his one best chance and plans his game accordingly; the strategist watches for his chance to create a situation. The next hand shows how the analyst at once notes his line of procedure, and then plans his strategy.



Bidding went as follows: Z, 2-Hearts; Y, 2-Spades; Z, 3-No Trumps; Y, 4-Hearts; Z, 5-Spades; Y, 6-Spades; B doubled.

The opening lead was the K of clubs; dummy's Ace won the trick. Fulfillment of the contract appeared assured. It was almost a certainty that B had doubled on the K-Q of clubs and the K-Q of diamonds. There were in sight 6 trump tricks, 4 heart tricks, one club trick and one diamond trick, or 12 tricks total. As an analyst Y saw that either he must win a trick with the J of clubs or the J of diamonds to make a grand slam, to collect the bonus for one trick over his doubled contract. As a strategist Y played the hand air tight and as follows: His second, third and fourth tricks were won by top trumps. Then the declarer ceased leading trumps, as all adversely held spades had fallen. Four rounds of winning hearts were next taken. Upon dummy's fourth heart Y discarded a diamond. Thus far eight tricks had been won.

To regain his own hand Y led dummy's lowest club and trumped, giving him his ninth straight trick. The tenth trick was won by means of a trump lead. The players about the table held the following cards:

Y led his last spade to the eleventh trick, and B had to discard one card from his three; if the dummy stared at him the J of clubs, that would become good in case B dropped the Q; in case B discarded either his K or Q of diamonds the A-J in dummy would win the last two tricks. B was squeezed which ever way he played. B felt as if he had to choose between being drowned or shot when he let go his K of diamonds, vainly hoping that the declarer might credit the Q to A, and forgetting that the J of clubs was not good, that Y might discard dummy's J of diamonds. But Y discarded dummy's losing club and made his grand slam.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The eyebrow crayon is a good friend whose generosity should not be imposed upon. Take only a little of the dark brown pencil at a time, and apply with the utmost care and caution. Avoid black: too much like India ink. If there's any eyebrow material to work on at all—lots of the pluckers haven't any—mascara will serve. Dip the small brush in water, pass it over the dark paste, touch lightly to the eye lamberquins.

Tartar forms in scaly masses under the gums. It is a menace to the health of the teeth, as it offers the ideal lodging place for bacteria. The accumulation is checked somewhat by daily brushing of the teeth, but to be on the safe side the supplicant for good looks and perfect health should have these barnacles removed every six months by mister, the dentist, who will dig them away with his murderous-looking knives and pickaxes.

Draws 5-Year Term, Goes to Prison Alone

GREENUP, Ky., (INS.)—Facing a five-year sentence for shooting Millard Lewis, Alva Clarey appealed to the judge to let him take a bus, without guard, to the State Reformatory at Frankfort, 150 miles away. The judge consented, gave him his commitment papers and Clarey started off to prison.

TROOPERS HOLD 4 IN BALL POOL

ERIE, Pa., May 2.—(AP.)—State police said today they have smashed the Fort Erie baseball pool, a gambling organization operating in Western Pennsylvania.

The state officers arrested George J. Miller, alleged to be the pool operator; Harold Newcomer, Charles Connell and Ernest Pollock. The latter is a resident of Union City and the others live in Erie. Tickets and printing presses were confiscated.

The police said they caught Connell as he was boarding a train for Pittsburgh with tickets for sale there. The men will be arraigned later on charges preferred by Sergt. E. J. Price.

DOOM OF COAL INDUSTRY SEEN

CINCINNATI, O., May 2.—(AP.)—The coal industry must be reorganized or it will not be solvent nine months longer, Newell G. Alford, Pittsburgh mining engineer, told the coal section of the American Mining Congress here today, Alford said:

"From the trends of the coal business in the last eight years it is easy to see that the present ills of the industry are not chargeable to the depression."

The first major step in reorganization is the formation of a giant coal sales agency, which is waiting Federal Court sanction as to its legality. The agency would comprise operators within a radius of approximately 300 miles of Cincinnati.

MOTHER OF 14 SHIELDS SON

Mrs. Marie Recker, 45, of 2604 Norwood avenue, mother of 14 children, in Morals Court today, took the blame for her 18-year-old son, Edward, in a transaction involving alleged misuse of order slips of the Catholic Charities.

The mother testified she had taken three order blanks from the desk of Miss Helen Faragher, social worker of the Catholic Charities, had signed Miss Faragher's name to them, and had obtained merchandise valued at $20 for them in two downtown stores.

Her son was arrested Friday, police said, when he tried to obtain a cash refund for two pairs of shoes. Magistrate T. D. Jones held over the youth's case until Thursday. No charge was made against the mother. Store representatives said the husband had agreed to make restitution.

MacDonald Ordered To Rest Eyes Daily

LONDON, May 2.—(AP.)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was ordered by his physicians today, after examination of his eyes, to take a three-hour rest each day if possible.

After the examination the Prime Minister had a long conference with Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, and planned to attend the meeting of the House of Commons this afternoon.

DEMANDS VOTE COUNT SPEED

Return board workers, tabulating the votes cast in the April 26 election, were informed today by C. M. Barr, acting chairman of the County Commissioners, that they must complete the official counting of 30 districts each day.

If any of the four tables compiling the figures have failed to finish the 30 districts at quitting time, Barr told them, the workers must remain until the quota is reached—without additional pay.

Barr also informed the 80-odd members of the return board that any worker reporting five or more minutes late in the morning would be dismissed for the day without pay.

Barr said the reason for the order was the Republican State Committee is to meet May 14 and the election of its members in Tuesday's balloting must be certified before that time.

Russ Hydro Plant Succeeds in Tests

MOSCOW, May 2.—(INS.)—Engineers today expressed satisfaction with the first tests of the world's greatest hydro-electric plant, the $100,000,000 Soviet project at Dnieprostroy, which was designed and equipped by American experts.

While thousands of workers looked on, three of the plant's nine great turbines were put into operation yesterday, turning the low of the Dnieper River into electricity.

Nancy Cunard To Write on Negroes

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.)—The Hon. Nancy Cunard, daughter of Lady Cunard, is living in a Harlem hotel to obtain atmosphere and material for a book she is writing on the history and achievements of the Negro race.

Lady Cunard before her marriage to the late Sir Bache E. Cunard, was Maud Alice Burke, daughter of the late E. F. Burke of New York.

'Girl With Sweetest Voice' On Air; Piano Broadcast Sent From Plane

"The Girl With the Sweetest Voice" is on the air.

Mrs. Laura Walters, chosen from nearly 1,500 Pittsburgh radio aspirants in a contest conducted by the Sun-Telegraph and WCAE, made her debut as an artist in her own right from WCAE today at 2:07 p. m., with important Sun-Telegraph announcements. Mrs. Walters, who lives at 4014 Saline street, Squirrel Hill, and has a 2-year-old son, Billy, is the possessor of a pleasant, easy flowing voice that is perfect for radio work. Hundreds of her sister-competitors and many others welcome this opportunity to hear her speak. She goes on the air for the second time in her new role from WCAE, Wednesday, at the same time.

Mrs. Walters

The second episode of the perplexing mystery dramatization, "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," is presented from WCAE tonight at 8, with the third episode scheduled the same time Wednesday night. The trial, "covered" by Sun-Telegraph reporters, is presented in six parts, and WCAE listeners themselves will return the verdict—guilty or not guilty—through an extensive poll of votes sent through the mail to the Sun-Telegraph.

The first in a series of "sparkling" half-hour programs featuring George Olsen's orchestra, Ethel Shutta, vocalist, and Jack Benny, popular master of ceremonies, is presented tonight at 9:30 on KDKA. All three have been major stage and screen attractions, Olsen and his music have been featured in "Kid Boots," "Sally," "Good News" and "Whoopee." Miss Shutta, in private life Mrs. Olsen, has appeared extensively in the theater and also in talking pictures, and Benny is well-known as a stage and screen star. The program, scheduled for each Monday and Wednesday at 9:30 p. m., is sponsored by Canada Dry ginger ale.

Program Pointers

A real novelty, which also marks another definite step in the advancement of radio, is offered by the Columbia Broadcasting System and WJAS when Sandra Phillips and Peggy Kretman, titian-haired piano team, present their "Piano Pictures" program from a flying studio in an airplane high above New York today at 4:15. The plane from which the broadcast is made has a cabin 57 feet long, and a wingspread of 93 feet, and glides easily for 10 minutes or longer. A short-wave transmitter sends the program to the roof of the Columbia building where it is rebroadcast. John Mayo announces the program.

Miss Phillips

The Kentucky Derby, the racing classic of the blue-grass country, is foreshadowed tonight when the Parade of States program is presented over WCAE at 9:30. Erno Rapee's orchestra, Fred Hufsmith, vocalist, and the Mullens Sisters, the latter Kentucky belles, are featured.

The value of insects in fighting human diseases is discussed by Dr. L. K. Darbaker on the WCAE educational program tonight at 7:15. His subject is "Insects That Produce Drugs."

Watson M. McKee, secretary of the McKeesport Chamber of Commerce, is guest speaker on the Westinghouse Parade from KDKA at 6:15, when McKeesport is saluted.

Kay Donna, Peabody High girl, presents the second of her "Do You Remember?" programs over WCAE tonight at 10:30.

The story of an 18-year-old boy who tried to be a second "Billy, the Kid" is dramatized during the Death Valley Days program on KDKA at 8:30.

Upton Close, internationally known author, lecturer and historian, is guest speaker on the National Student Federation program on WJAS today at 4:30.

Hallie Stiles, prima donna soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera and the Opera Comique in Paris, presents a group of songs as guest artist with Harry Horlick and the Gypsies on WCAE tonight at 9.

Fan Fare

Betty Brown, who sings songs of the cowboys on KDKA tonight at 10:15, is a real American cowgirl, with spurs, bandanna, leather riding skirt 'n everything. . . . Petite Sylvia Froos is the latest of the Columbia stars to announce part of her programs. Others are Kate Smith, Bing Crosby, Singin' Sam and Little Jack Little. . . . Nat Shilkret can play a score over once and then repeat it without consulting a lead sheet. . . .

Miss Brown

Ventriloquism is one of the many accomplishments of Irving Kaufmann. . . . He amuses his guests sometimes by holding ostensible conversations with his goldfish. . . . Speaking of goldfish, Julia Sanderson is superstitious about them and won't allow them in her home. . . . The O. Henry stories replace the Kipling series on WCAE beginning Wednesday. . . . When one of his friends suggested that he write a spiritual recently, Vic Young picked up a pencil and paper, completing the manuscript in 15 minutes. . . . It was "Lord, You Made the Night Too Long."

George Vause, accompanist for Pollyanna, the Glad Girl, recently was ordered to bed by his physician because of a severe throat pain, but refused to miss a broadcast. So he bundled up warmly and went to the studio. He felt fine until he discovered he had to play—of all things—"I've Got the Mumps."

Loew's Penn Stars In Nite Club

The Vanderbilt Boys, who mimic the Mills Brothers, Bing Crosby, Russ Columbo and other radio stars, are headliners on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air on WCAE tonight at 11. They are appearing this week at Loew's Penn Theater. Co-starred with the boys is Lois Miller, the popular singing organist at the Penn, who presents another all-request program. David Levin's Orchestra and Herb McGee, master of ceremonies, also are heard.

The Sun-Telegraph Family Hour, popular children's program presented by budding young Pittsburgh stars, is presented from WCAE today at 4:45.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, goes on the air with the latest news flashes at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 7:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Chatting gaily on unique topics of interest to all women, Madelon gives her "Reflections of Madelon's Mirror" talk on WCAE tomorrow morning at 10:30.

Passport Expires, Swedish Sailor Held

Alleged to have entered this country on a seaman's passport and to have overstayed his allotted time, Jack Ellison, 30, a Swede, was turned over to the United States Immigration authorities at a hearing in Central Police Court today. Ellison was arrested in the downtown district by City Detective Walter Monaghan Saturday.

Colleges Combat Canvassing by Students

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 2.—(AP.)—Door to door salesmen who seek sympathy by saying "I'm working my way through college," were frowned on here by representatives of 27 eastern colleges and universities.

The schools announced students would be asked not to use the "sympathy appeal" and that companies would be asked to delete from their sales talk references to the educational connections of their college salesmen.

Mob Beats Negro Couple, Fires Home

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—(AP.)—A mob that sought to rid a white neighborhood of a Negro couple broke into their home early yesterday, beat the man, threatened the woman, set fire to the house and then beat four policemen who attempted to disperse them.

Two riot calls were necessary. Firemen reported that the attackers tried to prevent them from fighting the flames. Nine suspects, accused of suspicion of arson, breaking and entering and assault, were arrested.

Nude in Highway, Tells of Kidnaping

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 2.—(AP.)—A man who said he was Pedro Salinas, 25, of San Antonio, Tex., was found nude, walking along the Lake Shore highway, south of Buffalo, today. Turned over to police, the man said he had been kidnaped in San Antonio and robbed of nearly $6,000.

He was taken to a hospital, where physicians said he was suffering from exposure. Police began a search of three men in a sedan, who, he said, stripped him of his clothing and threw him out of the car.

N. Y. WONDERS THRILL 'ALICE'

NEW YORK, May 2.—(Universal.)—One of the marvels Lewis Carroll did not describe when he took "Alice in Wonderland" was used yesterday by Mrs. Alice Liddel Hargreaves when she spoke over a nation-wide radio hookup.

The 80-year-old visitor from England, who 70 years ago listened to the tales told her by the Rev. Charles Dodgson (Lewis Carroll), last night from her suite in the Waldorf-Astoria described the purposes of her visit here and told of personal recollections of the famous author.

Mrs. Hargreaves is here as a guest of Columbia University to attend the centenary celebration Wednesday of Carroll's birth. On that day also Mrs. Hargreaves will be 80.

Introduced by her son, Capt. Caryl Hargreaves, the "original Alice" said New York City reminded her of Wonderland and that going down the Empire State Building was like "tumbling down the rabbit hole." She said it was impossible for her to answer all the letters received from children in the United States, so she chose the radio to answer them.

Oil Dealers Hold Conference Here

Western Pennsylvania dealers were attending an all-day conference with officials of the Richfield Oil Corporation in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club today. The conference was sponsored by the Parmelee Motor Fuel Company, Pittsburgh distributor of the Richfield products. J. A. Roach, sales manager of the Parmelee company, said that the visiting officials were to explain recent developments in refining. Walter S. Laird, president of the company, was to preside.

Spring holidays are in order now, with many folks going to resorts just a few states off for a week or so. Popular among these nearby resorts is Old Point Comfort, Va.

The junior W. L. Joneses are there, stopping at the New Chamberlain Hotel. Others there are Mrs. L. A. Hartwell, Mrs. J. L. D. Painter, the George P. Rhodeses, the Gordon Fishers and Mrs. J. E. Milligan.

In spite of a steady spring drizzle Saturday morning children and their mothers and nurses were at the Nixon to see "The Reluctant Dragon," the third of a series of nine plays being given by the Children's Playhouse.

Children See Play

Joan and Mary Oliver arrived with their mother, Mrs. William Oliver, and their young cousin, Barbara Barringer, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Arthur Pitcairn Barringer.

Sitting in a box with their nurse were Dicky Mercer, William McCaskey and John A. McCaskey, Jr. Others there were Charlotte Taddie, Betsy and Julian, children of the Julian Kennedys.

Others I noted were Phyllis Davis and Ruth Kaufman, daughter of A. H. Kaufman.

And there was a large party of youngsters from the Industrial Home for Crippled Children.

Cake Sale At Party

A charming affair of Saturday afternoon was the tea given at the Woman's City Club by the League of American Pen Women in honor of Charles Wakefield Cadman, the composer. It was altogether informal, Mr. Cadman receiving old friends and meeting new ones as they arrived. During the afternoon he played a few of his compositions and he also accompanied James Achtzehn, baritone, and Miss Mathilde Flinn, soprano. Mrs. Marjorie Evans Stewart sang some of Miss Marianne Genet's compositions, with Miss Genet accompanying.

At the tea table were Mrs. Galen C. Hallman and Mrs. Ruth Stephens Porter.

League to Celebrate National Hearing Week

National Hearing Week will be observed by the Pittsburgh League for the Hard of Hearing with features of particular interest to the public tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

There will be demonstrations of reliable hearing devices every day from 9 o'clock to 5 with free test lessons in lip reading given on request at the league's headquarters, in the Buhl Building.

A lip reading tournament, the league's big sporting event of the year, will be the chief attraction for the week. The elimination contest takes place on Tuesday evening, and on Thursday evening the final contest will determine the champion. Miss Martha Calhoun is chairman of the week's activities.

Serious Discussions, Thoughtful Proposals Refute Criticisms Of Younger Generation

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Cynical and pessimistic critics of the "younger generation" would do well to sit through a junior club meeting. A change in anything less than an adamant mental attitude would almost inevitably follow, for such meetings show that the much-discussed younger generation is a thinking generation.

Take, as a single instance, the "friendly forum" of Saturday's district junior meeting in the Congress of Clubs. One of the young speakers, Emily Wilson, is an attorney. She discussed with delightful wit and wise selection some parliamentary topics. Helen Studer gave a valuable resume of "Monthly Programs." Mrs. Albert G. Brown stressed the necessity of a competent treasurer, a budget and adequate dues in her financial talk. Ruth Collins urged welfare work in all the clubs and mentioned especially the present activities of the women's division of the Salvation Army, and Clara Terwilliger, New Kensington journalist, sponsored a publicity question box.

Broadcast Program

All this, as well as the remainder of the program, was given as a radio television broadcast with a microphone more or less in use in the way of atmosphere.

There was music—it's a singing generation, too—by chorals from several clubs; there was the "parade of great personalities," including county, district and state officers and chairmen, and, if you please, the club editors, and two visiting district junior chairmen, Miss Kathryn Wilt, of York, and Mrs. F. M. Nickeson, of Dubois.

Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, state chairman, was honor guest in the evening and was presented with a silver cup for her new little son. The principal speaker, Samuel Kwok Ying Fung, of Canton, discussed the Sino-Japanese situation and a play by the Dormont juniors completed the meeting, which was attended by more than 200.

And, by the way, Pennsylvania is to have a representative on the junior program June 11 at the General Federation biennial in Seattle. Who will she be?

* * *

The College Club is to have a varied assortment of entertainment for its Friday afternoon meetings during May. In addition, the month's calendar includes the bridge luncheon tomorrow (a continuance of the bridge tournament, although attendance at the former series is not a requisite); a book talk by Mrs. Charles Reiteil for the general readers and the directors' meeting, both on May 10, and the annual meeting on the 21st.

May to Be Busy

On Friday afternoon of next week, John B. Townley will discuss "Politics in Allegheny County," on the 20th, Mrs. Frank D. Newbury will show motion pictures of her European trip, and on the 27th she and Mrs. Alexander P. Lindsay will entertain the members in their adjoining gardens on Briar Cliff road.

SMART AFTERNOON FROCKS FEATURE INDIVIDUALITY

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 2.—As far as clothes are concerned, this is a year of grace. Even one frock from a good house can help to make things seem brighter, so glamorous and glorious are the latest clothes. That overworked and often mis-applied word "glamorous" is about the only adjective that fits the description of the creations now being shown by the leading houses here and at home. Beauty of line and detail is uppermost and every frock or coat manages to be individual while conforming to certain salient characteristics of the mode, without being too lavish in their adherence. The afternoon frock is coming back, since so many women go to little gatherings between late afternoon and late dinner, gatherings that demand frocks somewhat different from the more simple, general wear gown. Entertaining has undergone a great change, formal stodgy dinners are decreasing. Buffet dinners, cocktail parties with all sorts of fascinating mouthfuls, a visit to the movies, and then on to supper, is so much the order of things in Paris and at home as well. And so, of course, designers have had to create a distinct type of gown for such a schedule. And we must all admit that they have done nobly by us.

* * *

BRUYERE MADE THE DRESS sketched here for wear at the races, or for the cocktail hour, a truly versatile model. It is in bright red crepe romain, and the sleeveless bodice is worn over a gumpe of white organdie banded with graduated strips of red romain. Between these strips the organdie is embroidered in white chain stitch. The red crepe bodice has a wide collar which is flat at one side and shirred over the other shoulder. In back it is loose like a square sailor collar. The skirt has a wide shirred panel at the side front and a narrow one at the center back. The instep length makes the model suitable also for informal evening wear.

Hit-Run Driver Sought in Aged Man's Death

RULING ON VOTE MACHINE REFUND WAITED

PITTSBURGHER INJURED IN N. Y. DIES

Evergreen Road Victim Unidentified; Many Hurt In Series of Accidents

County detectives today were investigating the death of an unidentified man about 70, who died in Allegheny General Hospital a short time after he had been picked up in Evergreen road, near Babcock boulevard. Detectives said the man apparently was the victim of a hit-and-run driver. He was taken to the hospital by C. L. Mertz, of 3736 East street.

William E. Kimberling, 74, of 588 East End avenue, died last night in Beekman Street Hospital, New York, from a fractured skull suffered when he was struck by an automobile truck in New York last Tuesday. Kimberling was secretary-treasurer of the Pittsburgh Construction Company.

BOY SERIOUSLY HURT

Ronald Rush, 12, of 1306 Brinton avenue, North Braddock, struck by an automobile driven by John Helizka, of Duquesne, near his home, was in a serious condition in Braddock General Hospital today. He had a possible fracture of the skull, physicians said.

Edward Anderson, of Kenmawr Manor, Homestead Park, his wife, Esther, and their children, Edward, 4; Carl, 6; Robert, 10; Grace, 14, and Ellsworth, 20, were recovering in their homes from the brush burns of the body, received, police said, when their automobile collided with the machine driven by Dr. G. W. Dean, of 3411 Main street, in Homestead.

George Bune, 21, of 2718 Sarah street, was in South Side Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull, received, police said, when four automobiles collided at Carson and South Fifteenth streets. The machines were driven by Leo Cassidy, 617½ Climax street; J. J. Stelzer, Columbus, O.; J. J. Daley, Strahley street, and Bernard Hartman, of 41 Pius street.

CRASH INJURES WOMAN

Mrs. Medissa Brown, 21, of 8134 Feindale street, was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital for cuts received when an automobile driven by her husband, Leonard, collided with a car operated by Bishop Dickson, of 607 Singer place, at Hale and Bennett streets.

G. E. Ernshaw, 33 of Overbrook, was confined to his home with a fracture of the arm, received, police said, when his automobile got beyond control and plunged into Pigeon Creek, near Charleroi. His wife, Mirian, riding with him, was unhurt.

Anna Dezero, 26, of 2243 Gironde street, was in Presbyterian Hospital with a fracture of the leg and lacerations following a collision between the machine of Roland Glendenning, of 1204 Irwin avenue, in which she was riding, and that of James R. Stiffler, of 1223 Sheffield street, at Galveston and North avenues.

RAID ENDS GAY CLUB REVELRY IN OAKLAND

175 Patrons in 'Swanky' New Night Resort Routed; Rum, Game Tables Seized

Eighteen county detectives added an unexpected feature early Sunday morning to the floor show which more than 175 men and women, many in evening dress, were enjoying—or maybe only watching—at the Mansion Club, on Craft avenue, Oakland, Pittsburgh's newest venture on the more swanky side of night life.

The raiders reported finding an elaborate and well-stocked bar in the basement with four bartenders serving beer, ale, whisky and mixed drinks.

Dice and roulette tables were found on the second floor and confiscated, the detectives said.

One man was arrested. He gave his name as Samuel Murphy, and posted $2,500 cash for an appearance before Alderman Thomas M. Geary today.

Many of the guests, the raiders said, were prominent in the city and county's business, social and political circles.

All were detained nearly an hour while detectives checked on their identifications. They were then released without charges being filed.

The Mansion Club formerly was known as the Town Club and the Lincoln Club, enjoying, at various stages of its existence, a patronage that varied from society to the racketeering and gambling element.

CIRCUS HORSES TARRY HERE

The circus came to Pittsburgh today—partially and briefly.

Motorists passing the big lot at Fifth and Penn avenues in Point Breeze were surprised to see more than 600 horses there.

In the East Liberty Pennsylvania Railroad yards, a few blocks away, flambouyant signs on a long string of freight cars proclaimed "The Combined Shows of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey."

The horses were en route from winter quarters at Peru, Ind., to Brooklyn where they are to join the circus tomorrow for its summer tour.

Shatter Myth to Win Prize, Ripley Advises

'Believe It or Not' Contest Tips Given By Originator

"What makes the best Believe-It-or-Not?"

The Sun-Telegraph has been receiving many inquiries from contestants eager to win one of the nine grand prizes offered for the best "Believe-It-or-Nots" in America.

Here's an opinion that may guide contestants, from the greatest authority, Robert L. Ripley:

"Just find something about which everyone has a mistaken impression and then correct it and you have a knockout.

"Puncture a myth in the making and you will win—the indignant protest of the world. You will be called a liar until you prove it in black and white. But you will win your choice of these prizes we are offering.

OPPORTUNITY AT HOME

"Puncture a myth in the making. That's what I did with my 'Lindbergh was the sixty-seventh man to make a non-stop flight across the Atlantic.' The indignant response was overwhelming. But it was an easy one. Thousands of persons knew that Alcock and Brown in a plane and two Zeppelins had made the flight across the Atlantic.

"Another one like that would win this contest hands down. And another one is in the making. I don't know what it is or I would spring it myself. It may be about this new tax bill, it may be about prohibition, it may be about the coming presidential campaign. I don't know. But it can be done.

"I do know this, the best 'Believe It or Nots' are to be found right here at home. I could run the feature for two years and make it interesting from the information obtainable in any American city. But people like to see foreign wonders, too, so I give them to them. But the best ones always have been found right in my own back yard."

CONTEST ENDS MAY 16

Well, we hope that will answer the most frequently recurring inquiry. We hope that it will enable you to win one of these national prizes as well as the daily prizes being awarded by the Sun-Telegraph.

All you have to do to compete is to write yours legibly on one side of the paper only, add any explanation or proof necessary and mail it to the "Believe It or Not Editor" of the Sun-Telegraph.

Aside from the big list of grand prizes there will be an additional list of daily prizes.

The "Believe It or Not" contest begins tomorrow and ends May 16. Watch the Sun-Telegraph for additional, helpful details.

DECISION DUE ON RETURN OF $400,000

Action by State Supreme Court Expected Today; Hirsh Inquiry Continues

The first results from an effort to speed up action in seeking a refund of $400,000 from the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore, in connection with Allegheny County's purchase of more than $1,000,000 worth of voting machines were expected in State Supreme Court today.

A rule to show cause why arguments should not be advanced to the spring term in the vote machine case had been made returnable today.

MADE BY TAXPAYER

The appeal to hasten the arguments had been made by Ada Bassett, a taxpayer, who, in a suit filed last September in the local courts, asked that $400,000 still owed by the county to the Poole Company be not paid because the vote machine contract had not been performed.

Judge Frank P. Patterson refused to grant an injunction to stop payment for the machines. He held the goods had been delivered and must be paid for.

Judge Patterson's decision was appealed to the Supreme Court. In the meantime, the final payment was made by the County to the Poole Company. An appeal was then made in behalf of Bassett.

LINDSAY TO CONFER

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, representing the Citizens' Committee in the legal side of the voting machine inquiry, said he would confer today with County Solicitor J. P. Fife regarding further steps in the investigation.

Records of the Electromatic Voting Machine Corporation are to be produced today for examination. Attorney H. D. Hirsh has indirectly advised M. C. Conick, auditor of Main & Co. Conick has so far unsuccessfully sought examination of the Electromatic books as result of disclosures of commission payments in excess of $160,000 during the bankruptcy hearing of the Poole Engineering and Machine Company at Baltimore last week.

Five Men Arrested In Cistern Slaying

Five men, said to have confessed the murder of Leroy Houze, Negro, whose body was discovered in an old cistern at North Hills Estates, Perry highway, were being held in Laurel, Miss., today, according to George W. Murren, of the County Detective Bureau.

The men, Webb Wilson, Charles Wilson, John Jenkins, R. C. Crumby and Percy McDonald, formerly employes at the estates, were arrested when they were unable to produce a title to the slain man's car, which they were driving. Houze was beaten to death and his body buried in the cistern, Murren said.

Give Government Salary and Keep Tax, 'Bugs' Urges

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

They're whittling the budget, but we still have to pay for the shavings.

The government could learn about expensive waistlines from Paul Whiteman. Costs more to keep it down that to let it grow.

The way the income taxes figure for 1933 we are going to be plastered more for asking for less. Washington should have known that Coolidge economy was impossible without Coolidge.

We've got a fair and square proposition for the boys who have been in Washington so long they think everybody lives in a white marble building.

We'll give them our entire salary if they allow us to keep the tax.

We'll do better that way.

Trial of Vivienne Ware Continues on Radio

Police, spreading a network over the district, failed to find the mysterious knife-thrower who, dimming the lights, sailed a blade and barely missed Miss Dolores Devine when she started to the stand Saturday night in "The Trial of Vivienne Ware."

But the trial will continue at 8 o'clock tonight over station WCAE. At the second session, Miss Devine, the "Scarlet Hawk," will be called to testify as to what she knows of the murder of the wealthy Damon Fenwicke.

Miss Ware did not testify in the first session of the noted radio drama which began Saturday night. But William Beggs, Fenwicke's butler; Dr. John Beatty, who examined the slumped form and presented a .38 caliber bullet as evidence, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hardy, Fenwicke's neighbor, told what they knew.

Beggs identified a note from Miss Ware, and a handkerchief belonging to her. Mrs. Hardy identified a car as that of Miss Ware's and said the defendent stepped from it at approximately 12:30 a. m., in front of Fenwicke's house. Dr. Beatty set the time of the murder at approximately 12:30 a. m.

Witnesses to be called at tonight's session of this fiction radio trial probably include, besides Miss Devine, Miss Delia Maloney, attendant at the John Golden Theater; John C. Sutherland, broker, and Axel Norstrom, garage attendant.

The second session begins tonight on WCAE at 8 o'clock. And the verdict is in the hands of the radio public. When it is over, sum up your testimony and in less than 100 words, send in the verdict and the reasons.

The motion picture version of the trial will appear later at the Stanley Theater.

FLOOD CONTROL MEASURE HERE SPEEDED

Jacoby Says Drafting of Plan Will Be Started; Prospects Encouraging

Drafting of the measure to create a storage reservoir system to regulate the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers to be presented in Congress will be started within two years, Wilmer M. Jacoby, representing the Pittsburgh Flood Commission, announced today.

Prospects for the furthering of this project first proposed in 1923 are encouraging at this time, Mr. Jacoby said. He spent last week in Washington conferring with army engineers and Congressman Guy E. Campbell who will introduce the measure. The action is being taken at this time in preparation in the event that Congress takes up public improvements as part of unemployment relief program.

The local commission's proposals recommend 17 reservoirs located in this state, West Virginia and Maryland. The army engineers who started a study of the project in 1923 following two appropriations of $25,000 each by the State and Congress, recommend only 12 reservoirs. This difference, Mr. Jacoby said, would be no obstacle.

Conkley, of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, will speak tomorrow at the noon meeting of the women workers in the Family-Help-Family campaign in the William Penn Hotel. Mrs. F. C. Irish, chairman of the women's division, will preside. Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, in charge of the county, and Mrs. Saul Lavine, city chairman, also will speak.

To date 4,750 of the 28,000 families have been provided for through $475,000 already raised.

ARTIST INSTILLS NEW LIFE INTO BALLET

Drawing Is Work Of Russian Woman, Now Pittsburgher

By PENELOPE REDD

Madame Suzanne Karpova's drawing "Dance" revivifies the brief existence of Diaghileff's Russian ballet that changed the entire course of contemporary decorative art.

Miss Redd

Madame Karpova, one of the 200 fortunate artists who participated in the most significant adventure in co-operative art that the world is likely to know for a long time to come, is now a resident of Pittsburgh. A niece of the Russian artist who became famous in France as Caran d'Ache, she has turned to pictorial art as an avocation.

Her drawing, reminiscent of the ballet of Chaikovsky's "Swan Lake," distills the attar of the classic spirit of the Diaghileff Ballet. For Diaghileff, "the enemy of stagnation and routine," realized thoroughly that the classic structure of the dance must provide the sustaining roots from which exotic variants might blossom.

Thus was created an evanescent moment in the history of art destined to touch every visual art expression of the generation. Artists were excited by the ballet. The contemporary painters of Paris, including Picasso and Matisse, designed the stage decorations. Men like Rodin and Bourdelle, the sculptors, and Besnard, the painter, hastened to set down the fleeting beauty. John Sargent and Laura Knight in England, Malvina Hoffman and Troy Kinney in America, paid their pictorial tribute to this art which was so soon to vanish.

SUZANNE KARPOVA'S IMPRESSION OF RUSSIAN BALLET

Refugee members of the ballet like Mme. Karpova have prolonged through pictorial art and the dance, the vigor of the Diagileff principle. In their work, the reconciliation of the classic ideal with freedom of expression has never been lost. This fusion is now recognized as the touchstone of contemporary art, lending structural strength even to an artist's caprice.

Tyler died as he was being carried into Mercy Hospital.

Garage Tools Stolen, Moving Van Clue

M. D. Best, North Side garage owner, today reported to police that thieves entered his garage and stole electrical tools valued at more than $200. Best said at midnight a large moving van was seen standing in front of his garage, 1520 Monterey street, and it is believed the theft occurred then.

GIRL COLLAPSES AT CRASH TRIAL

Helen Riley, 23, of 304 River avenue, injured in an automobile crash on the Point Bridge early today, collapsed in Morals Court and was taken back to Allegheny General Hospital. Fourteen stitches had been taken in her chest and head.

The young woman's escort, William Knapp, 20, of 1248 Straka street, was held for court by Magistrate T. D. Jones, charged with theft of an automobile belonging to E. S. Lindquist, of the Ambassador Apartments, 4733 Center avenue. Knapp, an attendant at the apartment garage, admitted taking the car last night for a ride. Miss Riley's case was held over. Both had been arrested on suspicious person charges.

WHARF TRAFFIC REMEDY URGED

Making Duquesne way and Water street into major traffic arteries before improving city wharf property as municipal automobile parking grounds, was urged to City Council today in a letter from the Municipal Planning Association signed by E. W. Mudge, chairman. The letter read:

"Any early expenditure of funds for an improvement along the river fronts of the downtown district should be devoted to establishing free traffic circulation around that district by the improvement of the full length of Duquesne way and Water street, west of Eleventh and Grant streets, in conformity with the major street plan suggested by the Citizen's Committee on the city plan, approved by Council and later developed and approved by the City Planning Commission.

"The earliest possible complete improvements of these amplified river front streets will give the maximum relief inside the triangle and is to be preferred to any proposal, which, by including extra expenditure for wharf parking space of costly character, will delay general traffic relief for that district."

CADDIE STRIKE CONTINUES

The striking caddie situation at the Alcoma Country Club, Franks-town road, remained unchanged today. Manager Joseph Trunan stated that it appeared the boys were willing to return to work, but stood in fear of an older non-caddie group attempting to direct their fight.

Members of Alcoma this year are paying 5 cents more per round for caddie, and the caddie is receiving the same money as he formerly did. Members pay 80 cents per round, and the caddie received 75 cents—the other five being placed in a fund to be split into cash prizes at the end of the season. This system is approved by the West Penn Golf Association's caddie welfare committee, and is in use at several clubs.

There's a cable from Harry Green . . . He played bridge with the Prince of Wales over the wk-end . . . Says he mentioned your name to Eddie, but he'd never heard of you . . . So, there! . . . Fatty Arbuckle wired from St. Louis your home town . . . He will arrive in NY Sunday with Addie McPhail and wants to see you at his hotel.

Did you see that Front Page story in the St. Louis Star which told about your writing this col . . . It identified you as a former St. L. newspaperman who has been associated with Bohemian life in NY for 10 yrs' . . . Lawsy Cunnel Yawitz don tell me you all been hangin' out wid de Greenwich Villagers' . . . Anyway the Star is still Frank Taylor's paper . . . And do you remember the time he fired you for messing up that Hank Wecke story . . . You were getting $11 weekly in those days and had great ambitions . . . Then Big Ben Reese, the city ed on the Post, took the rest of your starch out telling you "to get out of journalism, because you'd do better in commerce" . . . Funny about "Another Language," the new smash hit at the Booth . . . Rose Franken, the authoress, peddled it for 4 yrs and it was rejected by every office on Broadway . . . Al Woods and the Shuberts thought it lacked zip . . . I called the box office for information on the producer, but got a very rude answer . . . Why do some treasurers get so haughty the minute a hit comes into their theater? . . . Helen Menken paid that $140 bill at Pierrette's, making good for the other guy . . . Marlene Dietrich's been phoning M. Chevalier, but he's seldom been in to answer . . . I couldn't find my check where you said you left it, so I pawned your typewriter . . . How long did you expect me to wait?

One phoned today and said the match mogul was hiding in Samoa . . . But I don't believe it . . . Come to think of it, the voice sounded just like yours . . .

30,000 STRIKE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Approximately 30,000 members of the Building Trades Council went on strike today pending agreement on a new wage scale with the Building Trades Employers' Association. The old agreement expired Saturday.

The strike affects not only the 30,000 men who went out today, but also the future of 85,000 other members of the council at present unemployed.

Among major building operations affected by the strike were Rockefeller Center, the Port of New York Authority Building and a score of large construction jobs.

Members of three large building trades unions were still at work despite the strike. They are the electricians, structural ironworkers and elevator construction workers, who have separate agreements with the employers.

Barthelmess Signs New Contract

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—At a time when half the stars are fearing for their jobs and the other half are squabbling over contracts, Richard Barthelmess has just signed a new agreement which will keep him at Warners for two more years.

Dick gets his same annual salary—usually in these days of economy—but, out of a desire to meet the studio way, he has agreed to make an extra picture each year. This means he'll be seen in six Warner films between now and April, 1934.

Richard Barthelmess

In return for his concession, Warners are making bigger plans than ever for him. His first picture, which is due to start immediately, will be "Cabin in the Cotton," a story of the old South. Originally, Una Merkel and Ann Dvorak were announced to play with him, but there'll be changes now.

I talked with Dick yesterday in his apartment and he seems rested and refreshed by his three months' tour around the world. He and Jessica Barthelmess were much impressed by the war zone in Shanghai and by the out-of-the-way spots they touched in the Orient. They also went to Egypt and did the usual week in Paris.

Dick reminds me that he's been in the picture business for 16 years, a truly remarkable record for any one player to stay on top of Hollywood's mad scramble. At this time, he's been with First National for 11 years, five as an inspiration star with First National release, and the remaining six as a straightaway star for the company.

He and Mrs. Barthelmess want to rent their Beverly Hills home and to divide their time between Malibu and their top floor apartment at the exclusive Town House.

Hollywood is smiling at the latest development in the B. P. Schulberg-Josef Von Sternberg row.

Addressing a group of writers, Mr. Schulberg, who is a ready wit, remarked:

"Now is a bad time for your writers to be making demands, just when the whole industry is bending every effort to make the world safe for Von Sternberg."

GOSSIP

The same Mr. Schulberg is not too occupied with his other troubles to engage in a tilt with R-K-O over the services of Director Norman Taurog. As the hot rumor reaches me, Taurog has overstayed his original loan to R-K-O and Schulberg wants him back on the home lot immediately. In the meanwhile, there's still work to be done on "Hold 'Em Jail," the picture Taurog was borrowed for. It's all very exciting . . . Speaking of jails, Polly Moran was recognized by most of the prisoners when she made a trip through the Los Angeles hoosegow (at her own request, of course) . . . Greta Garbo's passport, they say, was taken out in San Francisco . . . Maureen O'Sullivan has started the reclaimed farmhouse craze out here. She's bought an old farmhouse on the outskirts of Hollywood and has fitted it out with antique furniture, etc. . . . W. S. Van Dyke is on his way to Seattle to secure a ship to carry M. G. M.'s "Eskimo" company to Point Barrow.

OWNER QUIZZED ON HOME BLAST

Frank Folino, 55, steel worker, of Clairton, was being questioned today by Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr, after an explosion and fire had destroyed the Folino home, 314 Thomas avenue, Clairton, at 1 a. m.

According to the fire marshal, an explosion aroused residents of that section and when firemen responded to an alarm the entire house was ablaze. The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

Pfarr said firemen found a 10-gallon can of gasoline, which had not been touched by the flames. The building, he said, bore evidence of having been soaked with gasoline.

Folino said he was at work at the time of the fire, according to Pfarr, and his wife and nine children were visiting in Sewickley. According to the fire marshal, $6,000 insurance was carried on the five-room building, and $1,500 on the furnishings.

Twenty-five of Gen. Augusto Sandino's rebel followers were reported killed. Another brisk engagement was reported in progress near Jinotega.

Plays and Players -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Seats are on sale now in the box office of the Alvin for next week's engagement of "Hay Fever," sixth and final offering in the subscription season of the Professional Players. It is a comedy by Noel Coward and its star is Constance Collier. Matinees will be on the customary days, Wednesday and Saturday.

* * *

Wednesday night only the Nixon will present "Such Is Life," comedy drama that made its first appearance this season in New York. It is a Yiddish play and the company to present it is headed by two prominent stars of the Jewish stage, Misha and Lucy German. Menashe Shulnik is the featured comedian in "Such Is Life."

On his return to New York from a trip to South America, Noel Coward, playwright-actor who authored "Hay Fever," among other plays, announced that Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt and he would appear next season in a play by himself. The Lunts have been the Theater Guild's chief prop for several seasons.

Genevieve Tobin, who was very popular in her stage days, has been coming along in the movies, as witness her near-theft of "One Hour With You" from Chevalier and MacDonald, and is getting her reward with the lead in "Hollywood Speaks". . . Lee Tracy, playing the lead in the "Blessed Event" film, will always be remembered for his other reporter role, Hildy Johnson in "The Front Page" of the stage . . . Jean Harlow, who, we believe, is a platinum blonde, has been given the lead role in "The Red-Headed Woman," in which Chet Morris will be the main male . . . Flo Ziegfeld has leased the Earl Carroll Theater in New York, will rename it The Casino and present there his revival of "Show Boat."

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

THE SONGWRITER swears it happened to him and I see no reason to disbelieve him. He was walking from Fifth to Sixth Ave. in one of the blocks in the Forties. As he neared Sixth Ave., he came upon a very old woman who was holding a slip of paper in her hand and looking about in bewildered fashion.

The woman was a rather pitiful figure. She was bent away over and seemed barely able to hobble with the aid of the heavy cane she was carrying. You might spot her age as anywhere from 70 to 80. The songwriter was about to pass her when she stopped him.

"Pardon me, sir," she said in a very low tone. "I wonder if you would be kind enough to help an old lady."

"Certainly, madam," he returned. "Is there something wrong?"

With a hand that was shaking visibly, she extended the slip of paper.

"I don't know where I am," she murmured. "I have the address of the people I must see. It's on this piece of paper. But on my way over from Brooklyn, I broke my glasses. It's very hard for me to see anything. Could you point out to me exactly where I am to go?"

The songwriter looked at the slip. It carried the name of Reynolds—and the address under the name was the very house in front of which they were standing. He smiled.

"You haven't far to go, madame," he told her. "This is your spot right here. Right in this house."

He returned the slip of paper, tipped his hat and turned to go.

"You've been so kind," she said. "Could you help me just a little more? I was told to ring a bell under the name of Reynolds and that the door would open. I'm afraid that, without my glasses, I won't be able to find the name."

The old lady seemed so frightened and apologetic that the songwriter was touched.

"Let me take you in," he said. "I'll be only too happy to find the proper bell for you. Take your time now. Easy."

Together they walked slowly down the three steps that led to the hall of the walk-up apartment.

"It's good of you to be so nice to an old lady," said the woman.

"Nothing at all," the songwriter assured her.

He peered at the various bells in a search for the name of Reynolds. He wrinkled his brow—and he peered again.

"Strange," he observed. "There doesn't seem to be anybody by that—"

That was as far as he reached. The old woman had suddenly straightened. And into the songwriter's ribs were something that he now says was the biggest revolver he had ever seen.

The old woman spoke. But when she spoke this time, it was in the voice of a very healthy man. In other words, the poor "old lady" was a male crook with a new idea.

"Make a sound, buddy," he muttered, "and you'll be making the last mistake of your life. Just hand over your money and that ring on your left hand."

The tunesmith did exactly as he was told. Which was just what you or I would have done, I imagine. He had $150 in his pocket, and he forked it over without a second's hesitation. The ring went the same route.

"Okay," said the crook. "I'm backing out of this hall now, and if you make a sound or stick your face out until I'm gone I'll blow your brains out. Understand?"

The songwriter was too frightened to do anything but nod. And he kept his word, too. He waited fully five minutes before he ventured to move. By that time, of course, the "poor old lady" had vanished.

There's nothing strange about the story. That's the way it actually occurred. As far as I'm concerned, the only element of mystery in the thing is how any songwriter happened to have $150. . . .

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

APRIL BUSINESS REPORTED BIT LIVELIER

Downward Pace of Prices And Indexes Slackened; Money Rates Cut Abroad

NEW YORK, May 2.—Despite doubts and discouragements about certain fundamental features of the business situation, particularly as regards official and legislative attitudes toward the problem of recovery, April afforded some evidence of inherent economic vitality and convalescence, according to the Business Week. The decline in important business indicators and in commodity prices slackened and in some cases ceased.

Merchandise carloadings have risen moderately, and as the month closed steel production slowly expanded under the stimulus of increased activity in the automobile industry, which is expected to continue for several months.

RESERVE AIDS CREDIT

More significant are the first signs that Federal Reserve efforts to start credit expansion are beginning to take effect. Although contraction continued in the out-of-town banks, loans and investments of the New York member banks have shown an important and unexpectedly prompt response to open market operations of the Reserve authorities for the first time since last September, including even an upturn in commercial loans.

Reduction of money rates in foreign centers also reflects further easing of financial tension. If this tendency continues it will be an encouraging indication that the stormy winter is past and spring not far behind.

INDEX DECLINES

At this jittery juncture it would be most helpful if Congress could put aside its stock-market muckrake and begin to do some spring plowing for the crop of constructive measures that will be much needed before the harvest moon, no matter who is elected.

Th index of the Business Week registers a drop. The preliminary reading for the week ending April 23 is 87.0, which compares with 88.6 for the seven-day period ending April 16. The index stood at 79.5 for the week ending April 25, 1931.

LATEST METHOD FOR HAT-CLEANING

NEW PROCESS AIDS INDUSTRY

The hat cleaning industry has overcome the problem of separating grime and grease from cleaning solvent so that the grime from one hat is not transferred to another in the renovating process, according to L. C. Rosen, 326 Fourth avenue. Said Mr. Rosen of the results of clearing up this major problem:

"Aside from the assurance of absolute cleanness, there is additional certainty of complete sanitation. Our equipment includes a filteration tank which constantly removes dirt particles from the 70 gallons of fluid in the revolving washing tub. The scum of grease that even a filtration tank cannot remove is taken out in a vacuum distillation tank. There is also a caustic tank to take harmful chemicals out of the cleaning solvent and an air extractor for the soapy solution of the first pre-spotting procedure in the cleaning process."

Aluminum Continues to Increase Inventory of Virgin Metal on Hand

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE ALUMINUM COMPANY of America is continuing its policy of accumulating a stock of virgin metal. Inventories have increased in each of the past three years. Since 1928, when stocks were abnormally low, this gain has amounted to 75 per cent. An increase of 10.2 per cent took place during 1931.

Naturally this has tended to tie up increasing amounts of cash but, owing to the peculiar nature of the business, it would be difficult to avoid this under present conditions. The expansion in inventories was one of the factors which influenced directors to reduce the dividend on the cumulative preferred stock from a $6 to a $3 annual basis a short time ago.

The production of aluminum requires large amounts of electric power. In order to secure this at a low cost, most of the company's plants have been located near sources of cheap water power. In order to get an adequate supply of power, the company has been compelled to make long term contracts with utility companies providing for a minimum consumption which must be paid for whether it is used or not. This situation has accounted for the steady accumulation of stocks of aluminum during the period of declining business activity.

* * *

Future Policy to Depend on Business

THE LENGTHS TO which the company will go in continuing to build up inventories will depend principally on the prospects for a future recovery in business. If the existing low rate of demand should extend over a substantially longer period of time, a point would eventually be reached at which it might be more expedient to shut down plants and take the loss on the unused power.

During the period of maximum business activity, the Aluminum Company was not able to supply the domestic demand and actually purchased material from foreign producers. Inventories stood at $24,113,312 at the end of 1928. This compared with $36,223,877 in 1927. As the volume of general business began to taper off in the latter part of 1929 the company was able to start building up its stocks to normal proportions. Inventories increased to $29,897,521 in 1929. As the decline in sales continued, the use of power bought under contract continued to increase inventories which expanded to $38,282,486 in 1930 and to $42,199,053 at the close of 1931.

* * *

Pounds of Metal Held Not Certain

THE COMPANY DOES not make public the actual number of pounds of metal held. It is probable, however, that the increase in volume has coincided closely with the increase in the value of the inventory. Only minor changes have taken place in the price of virgin aluminum.

In 1931 the Aluminum Company earned $3,910,053 after all charges. This was equivalent to $2.66 a share on the preferred stock, or less than half the dividend requirements. The payment of part of the preferred dividends from surplus and the accumulation of inventories were major factors in necessitating an increase in bills payable from $5,252,500 to $23,050,000 during 1931.

Fertilizer Imports Reported Lower

NEW YORK, May. 2.—(AP.)—Figures made available to the chemical fertilizer trade disclose that March imports of all fertilizer materials fell off approximately 60 per cent from March, 1931, while those for the first quarter of 1932 were about one-half of those for the same time in 1931.

Hopeful Economic Signs Have Little Effect Upon Market; Senate Factor

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Hard boiled folk, who say it with "buy" or "sell" orders at the stock exchange, showed little enthusiasm last week over evidences of synthetic economic improvement, such as the Federal Reserve credit expansion policy or the administration reconstruction efforts.

In spite of the reversal of the alarmingly rapid shrinkage in member bank deposits and loans and investments, little bullishness was revealed in the actual demand for risk-bearing securities.

Mr. Rukeyser

Since demand depends on very human motives, it is not unlikely that the muckraking activities of the Senate Committee on Bank and Currency served to lessen the already feeble impulse to acquire speculative securities.

Although it is plainly desirable at this juncture to promote demand and to raise the price level, it should be recognized that institutions like the stock exchange are now on the proving ground and must stand up and defend themselves. It cannot be expected that the public will close its eyes to any real evils that may be disclosed, in order to promote the "managed recovery."

SOME BUSINESS SUNSHINE

April, though far from a cheerful business month, was not nearly so devastating as the period which preceded it. Some progress was made in holding the line at low level of activity.

Of late, there have been signs of tiny improvement in automobile production, building contracts and steel orders. Moreover, merchandise carloadings have shown mild gains.

These favorable developments in business have been accompanied by evidence of relaxation of the acute financial strain at home and abroad, yet confidence is still restrained by political uncertainty at home and by fears concerning financial breakdowns abroad, especially in Central Europe.

The low level of popular faith was revealed in the further decline through the month in commodity prices.

BANKS' STAND AWAITED

Last week, the first indications of a seeping down to the business public of the results of the new credit policy of the Federal Reserve were discernible. The real question is whether member banks will be converted from their present abnormal timidity, which, to some extent, is also shared by borrowers of bank credit.

Speaking for member banks, the National City Bank today characterized the new aggressive open market campaign of the Federal Reserve as "probably the most important stroke of central bank policy ever made."

TRADE HOPES CENTER IN AUTOS

Businessmen Looking to Motor Industry to Halt Current Downward Trend

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.)—Business ploughed its way through another difficult month during April, but finds at the start of May some slight but definite evidences of belated seasonal improvement.

Not a great deal is expected by leading executives in the manufacturing and retailing fields, but their coldest calculations make hopeful allowance for something better than sliding from here into summer at a gradually declining pace of activity which would be the normal trend for this period.

Principal hope for at least a temporary upturn arises out of reports of increasing production schedules in the automobile industry. For the week ended April 23, production approximated 37,000 new units against about 35,750 the week before. This gain, several authorities state, will be increased during May.

POOR FIRST QUARTER

While the United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel earning reports provided two new evidences showing how drastically business has fallen off in its first quarter, the industry is described as being more cheerful than it was two weeks ago. The industry's weekly trade publication, Iron Age, stated definitely that automobile orders had finally begun to appear and a distinct gain was forecast for the new month. Steel production moved up ½ point to 23 per cent of capacity.

Another moderately encouraging sign was seen in the April reports of new building contracts. These were at a daily average of nearly $5,000,000 a gain of about $500,000 over the March average. For the first half of April, new building contracts showed an increase of 11 per cent over the March average, which was considerably better than the usual seasonal gain at this time which is about 7 per cent.

POWER OUTPUT DOWN

The electric power industry continued to report substantial declines in production as compared with last year. The shrinkage has been due to reduction in home consumption as well as industrial.

Freight car loadings again showed an increase, the recent frequency of these gains tending to show that merchandise is moving better now than early this year. The weekly figure was 566,729 cars, a gain of 21,923 over the preceding week. A large part of this gain was due to increased shipments of coal, which increased about 6,000 cars. Nevertheless, gains of about 2,000 cars were reported in ore loadings while miscellaneous freight shipments increased 8,000.

TRIO'S ABSENCE STRAINS BUC STAFF

WHILE WES FERRELL yesterday was putting over his fifth straight victory for the Indians to lead all the pitchers of both big leagues in games won, Larry French was suffering his fifth straight defeat for the Pirates to lead all the flingers of the majors in games lost. The case of French serves to show that the absence of Heinie Meine, Remy Kremer and Charley Wood from the firing line this spring, aside from the failure of Ervin Brame to deliver, has meant not only the loss of the services of the hurlers named, but has lessened the effectiveness of the rest of the staff.

Larry French

With the Bucs short handed in the slab department, French was forced to pitch in seven of the 16 games played up to today in the first 19 days of the season, just one game short of half the total number of contests. No matter how willing a chucker may be to work out of turn, he can't get the right results without a chance to relax. No doubt the same handicap has hurt the form of other Corsair moundsmen. Glenn Spencer, Bill Harris and Bill Swift were in six games each up to today. They have to pitch too often to be able to do their best work.

OFF TO A great start this spring, whereas at the same stage of last season he was handicaped by a back injury, Bill Dickey thinks 1932 is his year. The Yankee maskman is ambitious to pass Mickey Cochrane as the leader of the American League catchers, just as Cochrane himself dethroned the fading Ray Schalk.

Joe McCarthy says Bill is too modest in thinking that he needs a great season in 1932 to reach the goal. "He passed Cochrane in the second half of the 1931 season," the Yankee manager avers. Dickey may not be quite Cochrane's equal in the strategy of the game, but he is catching smoother ball this spring than Mickey, who is reported jumpy and uncertain. And besides Bill ranks behind only Ruth and Gehrig on the Yankees at knocking in runs.

MANAGING THE RIVAL club in Philadelphia, Burt Shotton comes to the defense of the A's. He says that the rumors of dissension among the Mackmen are mere poppycock; that there is nothing wrong with the club except below-par pitching.

Shotton contends that the White Elephants started poorly only because the hurlers were not in stride. Any club looks frayed at the edges when it isn't getting pitching, and the Philly pilot predicts fast climbing by the Athletics when warm weather puts their slab staff in shape.

IN DISCUSSING THE pitching ability of Heinie Meine before the Reds left town Saturday night, Chick Hafey paid the Pirate holdout a compliment. Heinie, according to Hafey, was at his best against the most dangerous hitters, as attested by the fact that he shut out the Cardinals twice last year, besides holding them to one run and two runs in two other games. "Meine outguesses the batter a lot," Chick said. "He has the faculty of messing up the time of your swing, and when a fellow's timing is off he is in a bad way at the plate."

Burleigh Grimes

PERHAPS YOU'VE OFTEN wondered as to the reason, and grumbled about the waste of time, when a pitcher threw repeatedly to first base with no apparent chance of catching the runner napping. The explanation is that the hurler isn't trying to catch the runner at all. He aims only to tire him out and prevent him from getting a lead for a steal.

"A smart pitcher, one like Burleigh Grimes, will make several throws to the bag with a runner on first base," says Jewel Ens. "I speak of Grimes in particular because I have often seen him make 10 throws to first before delivering the ball to the batter. Burleigh was not trying to catch the runner off the bag.

"GRIMES' REAL OBJECT in throwing the ball was to make the runner hustle back to the sack, and if he could make his man hit the dirt, so much the better. Burleigh was aiming to tire the runner and make him cut down the lead he was taking off first. He always did.

"Then, when the runner was getting a bit weary and discouraged, and when his lead was cut down for safety's sake, Grimes would deliver the ball to the batter. I have seen few runners steal bases on Grimes. And I don't recall ever seeing him catch a man napping."

AFTER STAGING A trial football game in Cleveland between two Case teams, Coach Ray Ride, formerly of W. & J., doesn't condemn all of the new rules, but he does say that one which will hurt the game from the viewpoint of the spectator is that which declares the ball dead when any part of the carrier's body except his hands or feet touches the ground. Several times a Case back, knocked off balance, would drop to one knee, and though he had a clear field ahead of him, play was stopped. Ray points out that a slippery runner, such as Marchmont Schwartz, often must regain his balance after a sudden stop by dropping to a knee. Another side of the rule was shown when Lou Hubbard fumbled the ball after breaking through the line. Though the opposition recovered, the ball was given back to Hubbard's side because he had touched the ground before fumbling, making the ball dead. Pat Patini, former Case coach and now an official, believes the rule will be either modified or stricken from the books before the start of the 1932 season.

THE EFFORTS OF Barney Oldfield to find a backer willing to spend $50,000 on a racing automobile with which to attempt the smashing of Sir Malcolm Campbell's speed record have been unsuccessful up to date. Oldfield has the idea and Harry Miller has the blue prints. All that they need now is the dough.

Four years ago Barney could have furnished the money himself, but he was pinched in the market. Besides, the tenants in his fashionable Beverly Hills apartments are not as numerous as they used to be, and if Oldfield doesn't find a backer he will have to abandon the record-breaking notion.

EVER SINCE THE memorable feat of Frank Wykoff in Lincoln last July, when the time registered by the various watches for his running of the 100-yard dash showed a difference ranging from 9.3 to 9.5 seconds, there has been a renewed cry for an automatic timing device.

Frank Wykoff

The International Federation has decided to employ a mechanical timer, in addition to the regular watch holders, at the coming Olympic Games. It is reported to be a great improvement over the one tried at Stockholm in 1912.

ENCOURAGING RESULTS ARE reported by Edwin Dooley in the trying out of a number of timing devices independent of electrical control. One would photograph a sprint from start to finish on a uniformly moving film, the time to be determined by counting the number of pictures taken. Another idea is the photographing of an illuminated stop watch in motion inside a slow-motion picture camera. At the bark of the gun an electric spark would be photographed on the film with the moving watch. The camera would then be stopped until the runners neared the tape. A picture would be taken at the finish, and in the corner of each film the watch would appear with the time registered on it. Still another device employs the photo-electric cell. The need for some accurate system has been apparent since tenth-second watches were introduced in 1922.

FILLY TO GET REST; TICK ON FAVORITE

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.)—Top Flight, C. V. Whitney's unbeaten 2-year-old and until Saturday favorite for the Kentucky Derby, today was withdrawn from the 3-year-old classic at Churchill Downs Saturday and will be thrown out of training.

The decision to withdraw the filly from the Derby was announced by Tom Healey, Whitney's trainer, who said her disappointing showing Saturday in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica had convinced her owner she was not in condition for the gruelling mile and a quarter test in Kentucky.

TO BE GIVEN REST

Top Flight finished fourth behind Universe, Economic and Curacao at Jamaica for her first defeat. She had no excuses and was merely outrun.

"We are going to give her a rest," Healey told the Associated Press, "and then, if she improves, start her at Belmont Park during the spring meeting. We have no definite engagements in mind for her, her future racing career depending on how she trains when we start serious work with her again."

TICK ON FAVORITE

It is the second straight year in which the winter book favorite has been scratched from the Derby, Equipose, Whitney's Derby hope last year, going wrong almost on the eve of the event.

The scratching of Top Flight and Burning Blaze, which was injured in a race at Churchill Downs Saturday, leaves Tick On as the public choice.

L. A. A. C. WOMEN WIN TITLE

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—(AP.)—The Los Angeles Athletic Club yesterday won the National women's indoor A. A. U. swimming championship by sweeping three positions of the 10-foot springboard diving event.

The point totals were: Los Angeles, 39; New York Women's Swimming Association, defending champions, 27, and Washington Athletic Club, Seattle, 25.

Miss Eleanor Holm, of the N. Y. W. S. A., took her second championship of the meet by winning the 100-yard backstroke title and in doing so broke her own American record set in 1930, by navigating the distance in 1 minute 11 3-5 seconds. The former record was 1 minute 12 seconds.

Georgia Coleman, of the Los Angeles A. C., who lost her three-foot springboard diving title two days ago, came back yesterday to successfully defend her 10-foot diving crown in the event which assured the West of the indoor championship.

W. Va. Track Star Robbed in Philly

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 2.—(AP.)—Russell (Runt) Calloway, of Huntington, West Virginia University athlete, has had some more hard luck.

After qualifying easily in the 120-yard high hurdles at the Penn relays last Friday, Calloway was unable to compete in the semi-finals, due to aggravation of an old ankle injury.

Then, while returning from a visit with a friend in Philadelphia late Friday night, Calloway was attacked by two Negroes, who took $10 from him and left him unconscious in the street.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: THE GREATEST KIDNAPER OF MODERN TIMES—Czar Nicholas I (1796-1855) stained his reign by acts of unspeakable cruelty against his Russian subjects. On March 9, 1832, "His Majesty deigned to issue an order" to transport 100,000 children to distant parts of Russia. With heart-rending disregard of any human sentiment, the Russian authorities proceeded to tear more than 100,000 infants, aged from 1 to 8 years, from the arms of their Catholic or Jewish parents. The kidnaped children were fastened by twos and dragged in the dead of winter into the heart of Russia. The Russian roads presently were strewn with the little bodies dying of fatigue. Those who survived were farmed out to ignorant peasants, who brought them up in the Orthodox faith. Upon reaching military age, the "cantonists" were incorporated in the Russian Army for a period of 25 years. None of them ever saw their homes again. The "cantonists" are an ineffaceable blot on the history of Russia in the nineteenth century. LAND-LEVEL IS 10,000 FEET BELOW SEA-LEVEL—Sea-level is not level, due to the many movements to which the ocean is subjected and because of the attraction of elevated masses of land upon the waves. Scientific efforts have resulted in determining that the mean level of the whole land surface lies along a line 10,000 feet below present "sea-level." The abysmal area below this line is of equal extent with the area above it. FAHRENHEIT'S THERMOMETER NOT FAHRENHEIT'S WORK—Fahrenheit, who first made a mercury thermometer, took as his zero the lowest temperature then obtainable (a mixture of salt and ice). Taking the temperature of the human body as a standard, he established it at 96 degrees. Others then discovered that the boiling point of water was a more easily determinable standard and the Fahrenheit thermometer was changed through fixing of the boiling point at 212 degrees and of the temperature of the human body at 98.

TOMORROW—THE BELT OF DEATH.

CELLAR LOOMS FOR SLUMPING PIRATES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The National League cellar was beckoning to the Pirates today as they returned from Cincinnati to open a series with the Chicago Cubs at Forbes Field. Beaten for the third time in succession by the Reds in Cincinnati yesterday, the Buccos are in the unenvied position of having dropped their last five battles. It is possible for them to be cellar occupants before nightfall.

The somewhat demoralized Buccos will attempt to get on the chains this afternoon as they take on the Bruins, who have been playing brilliant ball under the handicap of injuries and sickness to star performers. The Bears are carrying on without the services of Shortstop Woodie English, Outfielder Kiki Cuyler and Pitchers Charley Root and Burleigh Grimes.

MALONE CUB HURLER

Either Bill Swift or Steve Swetonic is slated to tackle the Cubs in the opening clash. Swetonic's arm has been giving him trouble, but he could work on the slab if his services are necessary. Pat Malone is likely to do the twirling for Rogers Hornsby.

Yesterday's defeat of the Freebooters before 21,000 fans in Cincinnati was another story of a collapsed pitching staff. The Pirates treated Bill Harris to a four-run lead in the early frames, but in the fifth the home batters teed off on Harris to force a deadlock and in the succeeding round, George Grantham won the game when he lambasted a homer into the right-field bleachers.

Earl Grace probably will be unable to go to his catching post in the home inaugural with the Bruins. Grace injured the index finger of his throwing hand in the contest with the Reds. Bill Brenzel is likely to take his place.

Red Lucas triumphed over the Buccos in the Cincinnati fracas, Larry French relieved Harris in the fifth and was in action when Grantham propelled out his homer to decide the issue. Glenn Spencer finished for the Pirates.

PIE STARTS RALLY

Pie Traynor started the Pirates in the right direction in the second with a walk. Suhr's double moved him to third and Floyd Vaughn put both Buccos over on a single. Suhr dropped a little double in right in the third to score Paul Waner and Traynor. P. Waner's double and Piet's triple added another for the Pirates in the fifth, but Piet was caught at the plate when he tried to score on Traynor's fly to Herman.

Lucas started the four-run assault on Harris in the fifth with a single. Douthit singled and Grantham walked to fill the sacks. Herman's long fly scored one run and Hafey followed with a double to add two more. Chick tallied a moment later on Shevlin's hit.

Durocher's triple off French in the sixth led to the tying run. In the seventh Larry was knocked off the hill in favor of Spencer. Grantham's homer was the opening run and Larry was in plenty of trouble when Spencer stemmed the tide of scoring.

Gus Dugas took Adam Comorosky's place in left field, but the recruit could not put away a thing in the way of safeties.

FABIANI, CUBS WITH SEALS

A varied program of sports and entertainment is being dished up by the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for their weekly broadcast over WCAE Wednesday night.

The period will be extended from the usual 15 minutes to 25 and will be featured by music as well as speaking.

Charles J. Doyle and Tom Birks will present novelty numbers of a surprising nature and Julius Levin will tell how the seals are trained for the program.

Ray Fabiani, wrestling promoter, who presents a show at Motor Square Garden that night, will give a talk on his sport, which has caught on here, and also will play a violin solo. He is an accomplished musician.

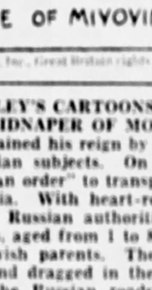
D. E. Benjamin, sports photographer of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will reveal some of the secrets of his work and tell of some of the thrills he has encountered.

Several members of the Chicago Cubs, who will be here for a series with the Pirates, also will appear.

See tomorrow's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for the complete lineup of talent for this most unique radio program, and don't forget that it goes on 10 minutes earlier than usual, with Harry Keck, sports editor, in the role of master of ceremonies, keeping things moving at a lively pace. Tune in at 6:50 p. m. and you'll want to stay with the show until it closes out at 7:15.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Carnegie Tech boasts one of the best student shots in the country in the person of Stephen Scherba, of Columbus, O., who likely will be a contender for a position on the United States Olympic team . . . The Army sergeant in charge of the R. O. T. C. at Tech rates him one of the best all-round performers now in competition . . . Scherba is captain-elect of the Tartans' team for next year. He is a junior in the building construction course . . . Following are some of his accomplishments as a rifle star: . . . Tied for first place in the National Rifle Association two-men team match (national competition), placed first in the Third Corps Area match for a gold medal, with the record score of 355 out of a possible 400, placed first in the Society of American Military Engineers match with 389 out of 400, tied the range record at the Navy . . . Stephen Scherba, Annapolis, defeating last year's intercollegiate champion, placed first in the shoulder-to-shoulder matches with Pitt, West Virginia and Navy, and was the tristate champion last year and finished fifth in national competition . . . Also competed in the William Randolph Hearst annual national competition for R. O. T. C. units.



Developments came thick and fast in the Kentucky Derby situation over the week-end, with the result that the dope has been knocked topsy-turvy for the classic to be run at Churchill Downs next Saturday. . . . With Top Flight, winner of all seven races as a 2-year-old last year, running fourth in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica and definitely withdrawn today and Burning Blaze incapacitated in winning a race at Churchill Downs on Saturday, and Tick On, third choice, beaten at Havre de Grace a few days before, all of the favorites got a beating around, and the race has become a wide open betting proposition.—HARRY KECK.

CARDS AND NATS SCORE WINS

Associated Press.

An altered lineup and a typical pitching performance by Wild Bill Hallahan gave the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals their first victory in four games and snapped the Chicago Cubs' winning streak at seven in a row.

Gabby Street, slightly annoyed by an outfit that had succeeded in winning only five games out of its first 15, benched First Baseman Jim Bottomley yesterday, shifted Jimmy Collins to that post and inserted Ray Blades into the outfield. This lineup stopped the Cubs without trouble, 7 to 1.

The Cubs defeat automatically sent the idle Boston Braves into first place.

In the only other National League struggle of the day, the Cincinnati Reds came from behind to down Pittsburgh after the Pirates had gained a 5-0 lead.

The Washington Senators gained the American League lead by beating the New York Yankees, 4-2, as Lloyd Brown outpitched Charley Ruffing.

Wes Ferrell won his fifth game in a row as Cleveland pounded out an 11-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The much-traveled right hander, Irving Hadley, made his first start for the St. Louis Browns, struck out 11 men and beat the Detroit Tigers, 4-3.

Twilight league baseball swings into action this evening, the City Section of the Greater Pittsburgh League and the Allegheny Valley loop being the outstanding circuits that will inaugurate competition.

In the Allegheny Valley League East Deer travels to Harwick, Oakmont goes to Tarentum, New Kensington Firemen come down the river to meet the Cheswick Firemen, while Harmarville appears at Springdale.

In the Greater Pittsburgh Fineview meets Wilson and Banksville engages Hazlewood.

The North and South League also will stage its opening but the City League will not swing into action until Thursday, when five games are carded.

NORTH SIDERS FACE TEST

In the North-South League this evening Williams meets Alba and in the Metropolitan circuit the Olympia club takes on the Millers. The Homestead Grays are booked for an appearance at Youngstown this evening, and the Warren A. C. tackles the Lincolns.

Yesterday the Grays were defeated by the Erie team of the Central League at Erie, 3 to 2. Erie rallied in the eighth to score two runs and win the ball game. The Homewood-Brushton Cardinals downed the Williams club, 5-1, at Overbrook yesterday.

Tomorrow night the North Siders get their first test of the season, when the Homestead Grays are met at the Salt Works grounds. Mart Kenny and Ray Riddle will have to get their lineup set to compete with the crack Negro club.

AMMON MAY HURL

It is possible that Ammon will get the hurling assignment in the game. This boy from Troy Hill looked good in the game last Friday with the Civics and while he should not be expected to beat Posey's club, he has an assortment of curves that may keep the Grays guessing.

Many of the league teams are booking independent tilts this week to get in shape for the league games next week, this being particularly true of the City and West Penn League teams. The cold weather over the week-end was a severe blow to the plans of many managers and the needed workouts had to be postponed.

ALL-STARS WIN OVER SLAVIAS

A combined Morgan and Curry soccer team managed to nose out a 3-to-2 win over the Slavias of Cleveland, at South Park yesterday afternoon before a good sized crowd.

While the Clevelanders displayed some good soccer, the fast attacking methods of the Pittsburghers brought results. The game was not long under way before Innocenti scored for the locals. The advantage was short lived, for Mike Bookie equalized. Innocenti scored again before half time.

In the second half, Maley scored for Cleveland to tie the score. Urbanic scored the winning goal for the Curry-Morgan combination.

Heidelberg wrote its name on the championship trophy of the Panhandle League yesterday afternoon, the Green and Gold eleven defeating Moon Run in the final league game, 2 to 0, at Heidelberg.

The Curry-Morgan-Slavia lineup:

Curry-Morgan		Cleve.—Slav.—2
Burnaby		Cubaro
Villani		Kandy
Ridge		Provenzi
Cheppo		Thompson
Powell		Nelson
A. Mitchell		Pinzarla
F. Mitchell		Mayo
Fife		Carroll
Urbanic		Carroll
McCloskey		Wilensky
Innocenti		B. Carroll
Goals—Innocenti, Urbanic. Referee—F. Hunt.

Says:

WASHINGTON, May 2.—My admirers are asking what's the matter with the A's this season. The answer is that they are basically sound and prosperity is right around the corner, but Connie Mack has temporarily mislaid the address.

Nick Altrock

The Athletics are a little slow in getting started, but so was the Chicago fire. They'll be going like a four-alarm conflagration before long.

Another trouble is that Grove and Earnshaw aren't pitching the way they used to, the sluggers aren't hitting and the infield isn't fielding. Why, Mickey Cochrane isn't even talking in his usual form. Put those all together and they spell "murder," and maybe Connie hasn't told them so!

COAST TRACK MARKS BEST

By JESS CARVER

The 1932 intercollegiate track and field campaign has been declared officially "on" with the first boast of the season being wafted out of California, where already they are bettering the best performances that can be turned in by Middle Western and Eastern athletes.

The Penn and Drake relay carnivals were events of the week-end with the boys at Penn showing a slight advantage over those at Drake. But in two of the nine events on the two programs that were contested in the Southern California-Stanford dual meet in Los Angeles, the Coast figures surpassed those of the relay meets.

Gray, of Stanford, heaved the shot 50 feet 6 inches, and Jones, also of Stanford, hurled the discus 161 feet 5.2 inches. The best the relays could get was 148 feet 7 inches by White, of Kansas State Teachers.

PENN HOLDS EDGE

Marks at Penn surpassed those at Drake in the 440-yard relay, 880-yard relay, four-mile relay, sprint medley, high jump, javelin, hop, step and jump and the hammer, nine events in all.

Drake took the cake in the two-mile relay, distance medley, 440-yard shuttle relay, century dash, 120-yard high hurdles, broad jump, shot and discus, a total of eight events. The boys were all even in the pole vault, clearing 13 feet 6 inches.

The Tipoff

Buddy Grevered has lined up a total of six intercollegiate boxing bouts and two days of competition in the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference championship tournament for the Tech varsity ring team for next year. Coach Kirby Bolton may now spend the rest of the spring, all the summer and most of the fall taking figurative punches on the chin for his boys' sakes. The schedule follows:

January 28—Dukes at Tech gym; February 16, Pitt at Pitt; February 21, W. & J. at Washington; February 24, Temple at Philadelphia; March 4, West Virginia at Pittsburgh; March 11, Bucknell at Pittsburgh; March 17 and 18, Conference championships, at Morgantown.

A good "future book" wager for the seven anniversary century dash in the twenty-fifth annual renewal of the University of Pittsburgh intercollegiate track and field championships in the Pitt Stadium is Hines, of Warren, O., who finished in a tie for second in last year's dash. Hines is fast, possibly this year as fast as any school boy dash man in the Interstate territory. Wm. O'Dea, Pitt star of Ford City, sensational hurdler in the Geneva meet this year, Hines looks to be the class of the strong field.

A slow motion camera will be employed this year to catch all finishes in the Pitt meet. There was some question as to the outcome of the 100 a year ago, and not until three days after the meet was Hines adjudged tied for second, instead of being fourth, and his team tossed into a tie for the meet championship with New Castle.

A pig of a silver trophy will be presented the winner of the 100 yard sprint, the feature event of the program. Hines, Baker, of Midland, and Redd, of Connellsville, are the big three of pre-meet reckoning.

Mark Jeffries' tennis match with Pitt postponed yesterday because of rain, will be played today. The President track and field squad takes Bucknell this afternoon in a dual meet.

WOMEN PLAY AT SCHENLEY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The Woschengo Club, the women's group at Schenley Park, inaugurates action today with an 18-hole tourney, a sweepstakes affair. It is the only competition billed until tomorrow, when the Interscholastic Golf Conference again goes into action.

Two contests are carded in Section 1, in the schoolboy matches. Wilkinsburg meeting Taylor Allderdice High at Schenley Park and the Arnold School team playing Shady Side Academy on the Aspinwall links. Carrick opposes Bellevue High at Shannopin. Oliver High takes a trip to Kiski and Peabody engages McKeesport High at Youghiogheny in Section II.

The first women's event—a postponed affair—is slated for the Pittsburgh Country Club Wednesday morning. A breakfast will precede the tourney.

SHRED WINS FEATURE

PARIS, May 2.—(AP.)—Edward Esmond's shred were the feature Pride Darby for three-quarters of a mile and three-quarters at Longchamps yesterday. Shred beating Son Excellence by a length, paid 12 to 10 in the betting and earned the major share of a purse of $1,600, strip the Willow was third.

POLAND TO SEND TEAM

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—(AP.)—Olympic officials in Poland asked the Olympic organizing committee today if athletes will be sent to the international games here from June 30 to August 14 by that country.

Tee to Green

The Forty Del Vecchio Day tourney, an annual team affair for pros and amateurs, will be held at the Greensburg Country Club, the club's 18 holes taken from the state orchestra's. Blame it on the depression. The club is to formally open the season Thursday.

Central Catholic High School golfers will be given their test tonight by their coach, Francis Brennan, former pro at the Greensburg Country Club. Brennan will stage the eliminations at the William Penn driving range, on the William Penn highway.

The Tri-State Professional Golfers Association plans on staging at least one tri-state amateur golfing event this season, and how! It will be a two-ball amateur affair, and the first of these events is to be held next Monday at Shannopin.

Olympic Committee Drafts Entry Policy

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—(AP.)—Confronted by financial difficulties which may necessitate curtailment of the country's participation in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles, the American Olympic Committee has drafted its policy in the situation.

If the necessary funds, estimated at $350,000, are raised the United States will enter 20 events. If the campaign for funds falls short the committee will enter teams in as many events as it can finance, in this order:

Men's track and field, men's swimming and diving, women's swimming and diving, boxing, wrestling, rowing, equestrian, women's track and field, gymnastics, men's fencing, women's fencing, weight lifting, rifle shooting, revolver shooting, water polo, modern pentathlon, cycling, yachting, field hockey and lacrosse.

RIFLES GET HURLER

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 2.—(AP.)—The management of the Springfield Rifles has announced the purchase of Pitcher Ray Walker from the Baltimore team of the International League.

INDOOR BOXING SEASON ON WANE HERE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

With the exception of the Tony Herrera-Lew Massey show scheduled at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, the indoor boxing season in Pittsburgh appears to be thoroughly washed up, as a result of the fiasco that marked the attempt to revive Saturday night boxing shows at the Kappahan Arena, night before last.

Only a handful of fans turned out for the makeshift card and it was called off and the money refunded. Indicating that none but a strong bill will appeal during the remainder of the indoor campaign. The Herrera-Massey bout should meet the requirements.

Shows are scheduled at the Moose Temple next Friday night and at the Arena on Saturday, but it is doubtful now if both or either of these will go through. Lou Terry, of St. Louis, and Frankie Bojarski, of Erie, are booked at the Moose, with Joey Speigal slated to appear in another 10-rounder, while, at the Arena, Battling Gizzy, of Donora, is booked to go through with a match with Jackie Cohen, of New York, postponed several weeks ago.

TURN TO OUTDOORS

Meanwhile, the attention of the fans already is focussed on the outdoor season, scheduled to open on May 19, at Hickey Park, Millvale. Gizzy boxes Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, in a non-title bout at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, on May 23, and the first of a series of shows will be staged at Greenlee Field, the new baseball park of the Crawford Stars, in the Hill district, on June 1.

Canzoneri has gone into training at Pomrton Lakes, N. J., for his first local appearance. He is being trained by Lew Fink, who supervised the conditioning of Gene Tunney before and after the latter became heavyweight champion. The Bowl has established downtown headquarters at 525 Fifth avenue, where its new matchmaker, Lew Raymond, is transacting business and ticket reservations are being taken. The pasteboards will be available some time this week. The club's telephone number is Atlantic 3494.

Between Rounds

Al Quail and Jimmy White will box the main bout of an amateur card of seven bouts at the Y. M. H. A. Thursday evening.

The fans are showing a lively interest in the wrestling show to be held at Motor Square Garden, Wednesday night, when Frank Speers, former Georgia Tech football star, resigns to meet Gino Garibaldi, of Italy, in the main bout to a finish, with four preliminaries rounding out the card. The show held a few weeks ago in which Speers met Jim Londos, the champion, in the main bout, was voted the best ever staged here and did much to promote interest in the sport, and reservations for this week's bill have been such that another large turnout is assured.

Signs of the times: Here it is the second of May and Johnstown is staging its first boxing show of the year tonight. Mickey Duris, of Johnstown, and Nick Ellenwood, of Indianapolis, are in the main bout.

Eddie Zivic is slated to make his professional debut against Howard Buist, of St. Louis, in the first preliminary at the Moose Temple Friday night.

New 'Wenzel'?

WHITEY WENZEL

WHITEY WENZEL HAS 'DOUBLE'

Back in the days of the late Harry Greb, Buck Crouse, George Chip, Al Grayber, Walter Monahan and other good local middleweight boxers, one of the toughest of them all was Whitey Wenzel, of the North Side, who met them all, winding up with a battle against Gene Tunney.

Now he has a "double" in young Al Becker, Sheraden middleweight.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

TWO MARKS FALL

BUENOS AIRES, May 2.—(AP.)—Two more South American records were bettered yesterday in the River Plate track and field championships. The Argentine, Oliva, ran the 3,000 meters in 8:39 4-5 and his compatriot, Elia, threw the discus 14.96 meters (147 feet 3 42/44 inches).

PUBLIC TENNIS COURTS READY FOR OPENING

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Racquet action on public, private and club rectangles will supplement the efforts of college and scholastic netmen this week as the 1932 tennis campaign advances into the stage of general competition.

According to announcement from C. E. Forrest, County Parks sport head, the six clay courts in South Park will be opened for public play within the next few days with formal inauguration ceremony billed for next Saturday, when several leading district sharp-shooters will be invited to stage special exhibition tilts.

Public courts in city and borough parks are likewise slated for early use, while net enclosures at the Allegheny Country Club, P. A. A., Stanton Heights, and Pittsburgh Golf Club are already set and the surfaces at other local organizations are being speedily whipped into trim.

The sanction and schedule committee of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association is aiming to enter huddle later in the week with intent to work out final draft of the P. T. A. Inter-Club League card. Indecision on the part of several outfits as to plans for the impending season has retarded progress on the schedule to date, but inasmuch as the bill must be completed in time for release at the annual "Tennis Night" smoker at the P. A. A. on May 10, all hands must be definitely rounded up very shortly.

Former Court Stars Arrive for Banquet

Harry Hough and Bill Keenan, two of the greatest basketball players of all time; Frank Morganwerk, nationally-known promoter, manager and authority, and several other out-of-town basketball nobilities formed the eastern vanguard to arrive here for the Old Timers' basketball reunion and banquet at Webster Hall tomorrow night. This group of old timers arrived late last night and will be joined by several more today. Reservations have been coming in daily by the dozens, and a turnout of 200 or more is expected.

The Manchester team of 1900 to 1905, one of the foremost here during that period, will attend in a body, according to its sponsor, Harry Burry.

Life Threatened As Car Takes Fire

WELLINGTON, N. Z., May 2.—(AP.)—Norman (Wizard) Smith, famous Australian racing pilot, had a narrow escape from death today when his car caught fire while Smith was attempting to set a new five-mile record at Ninety Mile Beach.

Smith escaped burns and soon had the fire extinguished. His car was only slightly damaged. After this mishap Smith announced he would return to Australia, but would come back to New Zealand for further record attempts in November, when the beach will be dry.

Y. M. H. A. Team Wins in Fencing

The Y. M. and W. H. A. fencing teams captured top honors in the initial tournament of the newly-organized Western Pennsylvania Amateur Fencers' League in the Y. M. H. A. yesterday. The Y team defeated Greensburg Y. M. C. A. in the finals, 5 to 3, after beating Homestead Library in the preliminary round, 5-3. Greensburg won over Carnegie in the first round, 5-1.

In the women's competition, Miss Adler, of the Homestead Library, defeated Miss Frances Antini, of Greensburg, in the final round.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES TO DECLINE

Losses of 1 to More Than 3 Sends Much of List to New Lows; Trading Meager

NEW YORK, May 2.—The wearing away of share prices under slow but persistent selling continued at the start of the new week in Wall street.

Losses of 1 to more than 3 points carried much of the list to new lows for the cycle, although trading was again in meager volume. Selling was fairly general, but oils held their ground well.

Issues losing about 2 to3 points included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Norfolk and Western, American Tobacco "B," American Telephone, United States Steel preferred, Bethlehem preferred, Safeway Stores, Macy, Coca Cola and a few others. Penney and Hershey were soft spots, off more than 5. United States Steel common sagged nearly a point, and other issues off a point or so included American Can, Union Carbide, National Biscuit, Woolworth and others. Frisco Railroad preferred dropped 1½ points to 1.

The projected reorganization of the Frisco, as result of the Interstate Commerce Commission order that it must reduce its fixed charges before the commission could approve of a government loan, continued to receive considerable attention in Wall street. It was felt in most brokerage quarters that the order had adversely affected the market for carrier securities, on the theory that if the Interstate Commerce Commission should adopt the same attitude toward other weakly situation roads, a number of reorganizations would be necessitated. On the other hand, it was acknowledged in some quarters that the Interstate Commerce Commission was striking at the root of the difficulties of such roads.

The oil shares may have been helped somewhat by the ordering of the regular extra dividend of 25 cents by Standard of New Jersey, in addition to the regular quarterly payment of the same amount. Standard's annual report—it makes no quarterly statements—is expected in about a fortnight, and the net shown is expected to be well under the $2 a share disbursed in regular and extra payments, but the company is said to be still rich in cash, so rich in fact that it is now negotiating to buy Pan-American Petroleum from Standard of Indiana. Another important dividend meeting this week is that of General Motors, on Wednesday, and there is considerable talk in Wall Street of a possible cut in the quarterly payment to 25 cents from 50.

Brokerage comment and investment advices at the start of the week were rather gloomy, although some saw signs that liquidation was abating. Some of the leading investment services again pointed to the tortuous courses of the taxation and economy measures in Congress, and the possibility thatt he liegislators may not be able to complete essential legislation by June 11, as adding to business uncertainties and dampening business.

Germany to Again Purchase Wheat

CHICAGO, May 2.—Germany is losing no time in re-entering wheat export markets as a buyer, following the reduction Friday in that country's foreign wheat duty from 250 marks to 180 marks per ton. It is probable at least 3,700,000 bushels will be imported prior to June 20.

It is considered likely Germany would be inclined to favor importation of its wheat requirements from the Federal Farm Board if suitable credit facilities should be made available through the medium of a $100,000,000 fund from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

RAIL, UTILITY BONDS LOSE GROUND

Government Issues Hold Firm as Corporate List Yields to Liquidation

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.) — Only the United States government list held firm in the past week's bond market, while corporate issues offered little resistance to liquidating flurries.

Dealers of optimistic persuasion, however pointed out that, although the averages drifted to lower levels, there was a noticeable drying up of offerings in all categories. Total sales on Monday, for instance amounted to little more than $6,000,000 par value, the smallest aggregate since August 3, last year.

There was some profit taking in the federal department, but on the whole, "gilt edge" securities held around the high figures for the year. The Federal Reserve System continued its accumulation of government obligations adding more than $115,000,000 to its holdings during the week.

FRISCO LOAN CURBED

Poor earnings reports and continued uncertainty as to just how far the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will go in aiding the railroads brought some heavy pressure to bear on the carriers. Low-priced transportation liens spurted momentarily on Friday following the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of loans to the Frisco and other small roads. There was a relapse, however, when it was discovered that the Frisco loan carried restrictions, which may force reorganization.

The industrials, for a change, held up fairly well, a number even showing some gains. A few of the oils were in demand at higher prices following reports of improved conditions in the petroleum industry.

UTILITIES FALL BACK

The utilities were not far behind the rails in declining tendencies. A further drop in electric power output acted as a deterrent in this list. Consolidated Gas liens eased and a number of the speculative issues recorded fairly substantial losses. Western Unions and International Telephones were heavy.

The strength of French government bonds was the feature of the foreign group. Both the Republic's 7s and 7½s held around top prices for the year. The Argentines also came back near the end of the week and the Germans maintained a relatively firm position, as did British and Italian loans.

Land Bank Fails To Meet Interest

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Paul Bestor, chairman of the Farm Loan Board, stated today that the Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land Bank, Minneapolis, failed to meet May 1 interest payments on some of its bonds. Bestor said a statement would be issued soon regarding this bank.

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPICS

Few Important Dividend Meetings Scheduled For This Week.

Few important dividend meetings are on schedule for this week so that the market will be free to some extent of persistent disturbing developments of that nature. So far as corporation meetings are concerned interest will center around the outcome of the gatherings of Standard Oil of New Jersey directors and the General Motors board. The first mentioned will act today, while General Motors directors will consider dividends on Wednesday. With the decisions of these two companies out of the way the matter of dividends should be sidetracked for a while, though the Union Pacific meeting is ahead about a fortnight.

Terms set by the Interstate Commerce Commission in approving the advance by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of funds needed by the St. Louis and San Francisco for immediate obligations, chiefly taxes, call in short for voluntary reorganization. Funds advanced will take care of the road through to the end of June and in the interval the road is ordered to work out a plan of adjustment which will pare down substantially its current fixed charges. The specter of another receivership or two is naturally raised by this action, but close students have long regarded such development as unavoidable ultimately. Of "Frisco's" capitalization of $407,508,293, about 72 per cent is represented by funded debt.

Though Westinghouse Electric operated at a loss again in the first quarter results were encouraging in that the showing was relatively better than reported in the same period last year. Unfilled orders at the end of March aggregated $37,909,565 against $36,598,246 a year ago, in other words they were actually $1,400,000 larger. The operating loss of $1,320,148 reported compared with $2,885,945 in the initial three months of the preceding year.

The Trader in Barron's Weekly says: "The lack of general liquidation, the pressure upon a few stocks here and a few stocks there followed frequently by substantial price recoveries, are all suggestive of the final stages of major liquidation. Increasing dullness would be another sign. For the patient, and for those with courage to believe that American capitalism can survive this crisis, buying opportunities abound. Yields of even the blue-chip issues have at last reached a level that recognizes the inherent hazards of business. Sundry well managed, but nondividend stocks, are selling well below quick asset values. Railroad shares have discounted the receiverships which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was created to avert. It is late in the day to yield to the mob psychology of defeatism."

While the weekly Federal Reserve Bank statement showed a continuation of the policy of controlled credit expansion, the statement of reporting member banks in New York City disclosed that they were not available themselves of the additional credit placed at their disposal through the Federal's operations. It is estimated that excess reserves amount to more than $15,000,000 for the New York banks which would furnish the basis for an additional $1,500,000 in credit. Apparently, New York banks are awaiting further Washington developments before going ahead with expansion.

The application of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad to the California Railroad Commission for authority to execute a first lien and refunding mortgage on its properties does not imply any new financing by the road in the immediate future, according to opinion in railroad circles. It is believed to be merely a move to provide for the financing of additions and betterments when needed so that the road will not have to depend on its common or preferred stock as a medium of financing.

USUAL EXTRA ON JERSEY

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP.)—Directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share together with the regular quarterly of 25 cents, both payable June 15 to stock of record May 16.

Heavy selling of the stock in recent weeks raised some doubt as to whether the company would declare the usual extra dividend, but the action of directors today was not considered a great surprise in view of the company's extraordinarily strong financial condition.

It is expected that the annual report, due in the next week or two, will show that earnings in 1931 fell well short of the $2 dividends paid during the year.

CHICAGO, May 2.—(AP.)—Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana today declared the usual 25-cent cash dividend, payable June 15 to stockholders of record May 16.

Forbes

Our Monetary Developments Satisfactory

—By B. C. FORBES—

REASON HAS NOT YET been restored.

This, more than anything else, accounts for the continued absence of definite improvement in business, in commodity prices, in securities.

Mr. Forbes

A WOMAN ASKED ME last week how I regarded the outlook. Before I could reply she confessed that she had turned everything she owned into gold and was hoarding it in a deposit vault. When I asked her if she had given serious thought as to what would happen if everybody else tried to act similarly, she replied that she wasn't concerned about anybody but herself.

I TRIED TO EXPLAIN that if she felt acutely uncertain about future, she would have done less harm had she put her money into government bonds. But, she had lost faith even in them!

What a tragically large number of citizens heretofore regarded as entirely sensible do not apparently grasp is that, when they act hysterically, when they think only of Number One, and are utterly callous as to the effect of their action, they are doing their very worst to bring about unhappy consequences for themselves and for everybody else. Presumably it has never occurred to the out-for-number-one patriots to ponder what might happen should each of the seven or eight million unemployed decide to follow a like course.

WASHINGTON—more strictly Congress — is blamed for the current spasm of uneasiness. Tax floundering persists. There is no convincing evidence that the manufacturers' sales tax, generally regarded as the best way out, will be adopted.

Nor does Congress show that it fathoms the demand and the urgent necessity for cutting down governmental costs. Jackass lawmakers mouth about economy, but they bristle up and rebel the moment anything concrete is suggested which they think might affect their backbone vote-getting. They are still wedded to pork barrel politics. They do not realize the depth and intensity of taxpayers' demands for business-like action.

OTHER WASHINGTON bodies, on the other hand, are operating most helpfully. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is aggressively living up to its name. The Glass-Steagall bill is functioning satisfactorily. The Federal Reserve is supplying banks with the basis—at least theoretically—for additional credit of a billion dollars a week.

Thus far the benefits have been confined almost wholly to the banks. But, Wall street money rates, bankers' acceptance rates, the relatively low yield on government obligations, the dearth of borrowers entirely satisfactory to bankers, must and will combine to move the banks to adopt a more liberal, a less timid, a more helpful policy.

The sooner the better.

THE GENERAL TREND last week was irregularly downward—in commodity prices, in stock prices, in industrial activity, in bank clearings, etc.

The steel industry reports a slight gain in activity. The latest automobile reports record a modest increase in activ

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

CHAPTER XXII.

"I began the evening's performance," Dougherty responded with a facetious smile, "by asserting that Lola Carewe was a jewel thief. Since then I have not had five clear minutes to tell you why I think so. I am ready to do that now. And I feel certain that therein lies the secret of what has happened!"

Colt was refilling his pipe.

"Very well," he acceded. "you tell me why you think Lola Carewe was a robber queen!"

"You know that I am a man of few words!" returned the District Attorney with an aggrieved glance at his empty glass. "But it's better to know where we are going before we go too far."

"I'm listening."

"Lola Carewe lived the life of a wealthy woman. Right? She had no visible source of income! Right? I start from there. At the various night clubs in New York she has been seen consorting with suspicious looking characters!"

Colt threw a mocking glance to the ceiling.

"In all my experience in police work," he objected, "I have never been able to find out what makes a person a suspicious looking character. Does it mean prognathous jaws? If so, look at the Board of Aldermen. Flashy clothes? Look at the Mayor. Does it mean shifty eyes and a general air of avoiding detection? If so, look at the president of the Anti-Vice Society. It is a meaningless phrase, Dougherty. You know as well as I do that some of the most respectable looking human beings on earth appear in the police lineup every morning. What other evidence have you got?"

"But Lola has been seen hobnobbing with police characters," remonstrated Dougherty, his face flushed. "I mean handlers of hot diamonds."

"But that doesn't prove her guilty!"

"No—but she is also often seen at their hang-out. You know there is a ring of these gentlemen congregating in rooms in a West Seventy-second street hotel, just around the corner from your own home, don't you?" added Dougherty, with a gleam of triumphant reproach in his eyes. "Now I happen to know that shortly before every spectacular jewel robbery during the last year the victim wore her gems publicly in a night club where Lola Carewe was attending—and that every one of the victims knew Lola Carewe and had entertained her, or had been entertained by her."

Thatcher Colt smoked thoughtfully.

"Downright impressive," he concurred. "But have you any direct evidence to connect Lola with any jewel robbery, beyond these certainly suspicious circumstances?"

"None. None at all! That was why I wanted you to come in on the case. I meant to give you the tip—and you could follow it through. Right?"

"Profoundly right," acquiesced Colt with a smile. "You have a dossier on your investigation, of course?"

"Sure—at my office."

"Will you have it sent round to my office in the morning?"

"With pleasure."

"An interesting theory," Colt ruminated. "But it will hardly cover all our facts."

"Look at that ruby Lola wore last night," urged the District Attorney. "How did that get around her neck?"

"There," demurred Colt, "is what seems to me a weak link in your theory. Such a jewel would be too conspicuous to be worn, if it were stolen property. Somebody would eventually recognize it. I have already asked our jewel expert at headquarters to check on that ruby—but I fancy we shall find that Lola came by it quite honestly—as that term is nowadays understood."

"It depends on where the jewel was stolen, and from whom," argued Dougherty, by no means convinced. "Anyway, let me put my whole theory before you. Christine Quires comes down to New York to visit Lola Carewe. In the intimacy of the household she gets wise to Lola's game—a stalker for loot for a jewel ring. The mob finds out that she has found them out. She is a danger to them ever afterward. So is Lola. So they plan to get rid of both of them. And they do!"

"Then you conceive," Colt stated finally, "that the death-threat note was a hoax."

"Undoubtedly!"

"And the deaths of the dog and the monkey a part of a prearranged stratagem?"

"They may have been sheer coincidences."

Colt's brows knitted in doubt.

"But why?" he persisted. "Why go through all that elaborate hocuspocus of the note? It seems so unreasonable, so absurdly unnecessary!"

Dougherty uplifted a red forefinger in his most impressive campaign platform manner.

"Thatcher," he remonstrated, "do I have to instruct you as to the silly and amazing things that criminals do? You know the history of crimes as well as I do and better."

In this contention Colt had to agree that District Attorney Dougherty was correct. To reconstruct any case on the theory that a criminal however clever, is a reasonable human being, is generally a fatal error.

"Nevertheless," persisted the Commissioner, "we cannot ignore the death of the dog and the parrot or the sending of the deathnote. There are certain obvious conclusions to be drawn from those circumstances. They show malice. And a kind of folk-lore superstition. Such murders have been known to occur in Rumania."

"And what do you argue from that?" asked Dougherty, after a significant pause.

"Too early to argue. But malice is there—malice in the killing of two innocent creatures, malice in the note that boasted of those two useless killings and the threat to Lola. The killer wanted Lola to know that death was coming; wanted her to suffer anticipatory pangs. Malice, sprung from revenge is hence a probable motive. The killer is intelligent, too, having perfected such a subtle method of murder that even the sending of that note seems safe—a kind of defiant assurance is there; the pleasure of torturing the doomed girl is greater than the risk of discovery."

Synopsis

Following the receipt of a death threat, Lola Carewe, known as "The Night Club Lady," is mysteriously slain in her penthouse apartment at 3 a. m. New Year's. Dr. Hugh Baldwin reports death due to heart failure. The only clue to the murderer is a medical laboratory specimen box found outside Lola's window. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt attaches importance to the young man whose photograph is found in Lola's room, and whose identity Lola had refused to reveal beyond his first name, "Basil." At the mention of "Basil," Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, becomes hysterical. It is known that Lola quarreled with Guy Everett and Vincent Rowland, a lawyer, over investments. Eunice, the maid, confesses she was employed by Everett to report the goings on in the apartment. The mystery deepens with the finding of the body of Christine Quires, Lola's guest. Christine had been killed before Lola and her body hidden until an opportune moment arrived for the murderer to place it, soaking wet, in Lola's room. The findings are similar to those in Lola's case except that Christine's neck was bruised after death. Everett, Christine's last escort, claims he left her at the apartment elevator at midnight New Year's Eve, and then went for a ride on the Motor Parkway, alone, arriving home after 3 a. m. Mrs. Carewe informs Colt that Christine lived with a brother, Edward, in Rochester, and was to receive her inheritance shortly. Colt orders Basil's picture telephoned to the Paris police. Everett's alibi of the lone Motor Parkway drive is shattered. Rowland discloses that Everett wanted to marry Lola and was jealous of Dr. Baldwin.

Now Go On

Colt disagreed with some of the district attorney's ideas.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Perplexed by Mary's Remark

Mary's query concerning artless Avis" startled me as if it were a reference to something from some long-buried past.

I had seen neither mother nor daughter since that first evening when Philip Veritzen brought them with him to the farm house the evening when he had insisted that I finish my play for him within three weeks. But the impression I had received of Avis Arlen then had not changed or been obliterated by the strenuous happenings which had since intervened. A girl naturally unattractive of face, and with an awkward angularity of figure, she had so emphasized her few good points and disguised the others with artifice, that she presented a striking appearance, even an alluring one, to youthful, inexperienced masculine eyes. That she believed herself possessed of special charm for men, and emphasized the lure in all possible ways and upon every occasion, was plain to less experienced eyes than mine.

But I would have paid little attention to her, indeed would probably have been only amused at her antics, were it not for the fact that she had made an especial target of Noel, and had trained all the batteries of what she fondly imagined her charms upon him.

A VERBAL ATTACK

Her intent to shake his allegiance to Mary and secure him for herself was so evident that all of us at the farmhouse were thoroughly in sympathy with Mary when, after Miss Arlen had goaded her beyond endurance, she had suddenly turned the tables, and, bolstered by Noel's public flouting of the other girl, who without any doubt had attracted him during his absence with his father, had administered such a verbal castigation to the spoiled daughter of Philip Veritzen's old friend, that I was sure in Mary's own atrocious vocabulary she would "stay put" for some time to come.

Of one thing I was sure, knowing youthful feminine nature as I did from my years of high school teaching. Not even to enlist further the powerful influence of Philip Veritzen, already her open ally in the attempt to separate his son from Mary, would Avis tell him or anyone else of the "tongue thrashing" Mary had given her. She was too wrapped up in her own conceit ever to breathe it, especially as Mary had gratuitously accompanied an injunction to "beat it" with an assurance that no one save Lillian and myself, who had witnessed the scene, ever would know of it.

"Are you there?"

Mary's voice, affectedly English, brought me back with a jerk from my memory painting.

NOT INVITED BACK

"Oh, my dear, I'm so sorry," I told her. "I haven't seen either Miss Arlen or her mother since that first night, and your question startled me into the realization that I hadn't thought of them since. I suppose I should have asked them over to dinner or something, but—"

"It's all right by me," she said, when I hesitated. "Either Noel is back in the woodshed with the door bolted, or he's ranging the pastures again, looking for a fence to break through. Either way, the best thing to do is to let the little cobra have the run of the place."

"I don't believe you have the slightest cause for anxiety," I told her, laughing, "but that isn't the reason I haven't asked them over. I have been so busy with this play—"

"Lucky thing for you old Ponderous Phil is urging you on to finish it," she interrupted, "else he'd be mortally offended at such a slight to his social pets. But I mustn't keep you. Oh, a bright thought! When you telephone Mrs. Brixton the result of your interview with Mr. Underwood, will you ask for me afterward, and then give me the low down. Sometimes I think our charming hostess doesn't yearn for yours truly as she might."

"Mary, dear!" I exclaimed, startled. "Why?"

"By the pricking of my thumbs," she said softly. "Goodbye," and I finished the quotation with "Someone comes" as I hung up the receiver and went back to my seat in the living room to wait for Harry Underwood's next exit from the sick room. But my mind went over and over her last astonishing little speech. Why did Helena Brixton dislike Mary?

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The stage of the Enright Theater last Saturday morning resembled that of the Ziegfeld Theater in New York when Florenz Ziegfeld is about to start one of his famous "Follies" rehearsals.

The reason, Miss Ruthie Miller, dancing instructor, and Frank Roberts, manager of the Enright Theater, were choosing from the hundreds of children who are pupils of the dancing school 16 girls to appear in the chorus of the "Komic Club Frolic," a miniature stage show which will be presented at the Enright Theater Junior Komic Club in about four weeks.

The lucky girls picked Saturday were Ann Helfgott, Margaret Louise Hugh, Dorothy Picovsky, Louise Mortimer, Shirley Madison, Jane Fisher, Ruth Rock, Rose Zimmerman, Grace Moffat, Peggy Pattinson, Tillie Smith, Mary Dorothy Bows, Norma Hite, Helen Cupps and Alexia Cunningham.

Manager Roberts, speaking of the "Frolic," said:

"I have been able to select almost the entire company from among the members of my own club, however, if any of the other chapters have a boy about 15 years old, that is a good comedian, I can find a spot for him in the "Frolic," and if he will see me Wednesday or Thursday afternoon of this week after school, I'll give him a tryout."

So fellows, if you would like to be in the "Komic Club Frolic," which will be presented at the Enright Theater in about four weeks and you think that you can fill the requirements of Mr. Roberts, report to him at the Enright Theater, Wednesday or Thursday of this week after school. The only requirement being is that you belong to the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Club. Be sure to bring your membership card with you when reporting.

At the Harris (Downtown) chapter Saturday, William C. Pearce, manager, turned the entertainment of the Junior Komic Club over to the ushers of the Harris Theater. Norman Greenwald, Arthur Figdor, William Morningstar and W. G. Upperman. Ushers Greenwald, Figdor and Upperman sang several popular songs, which the children enjoyed very much. William Morningstar offered an acrobatic dance which brought down the house. Then Joe Mowood, the Grand Jester, introduced to the children that ever-popular little entertainer, Evelyn Hughs, who again, for the fourth consecutive week, stole the show. It seems that the youngsters of this chapter cannot get enough of Evelyn's singing and dancing. However, she is a very obliging little miss, and sang song after song for them, winding up with every child present singing with her on her last number.

If you are not a member of this organization, send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

Gained 19 Lbs. In 3 Weeks

and Salary Raise

"For three years I have been working inside doing work that takes all my strength and energy but gives me back nothing in the way of exercise or health. From the first I began to lose weight until I had lost twenty pounds. Everything that I ate would pain me; consequently I ate very little. My strength and pep slowly left me and if I had continued in the same way I would have wasted away and eventually died.

"I took several kinds of pills that relieved the pain for a short time but yet I was not well. My local druggist suggested Dare's Mentha Pepsin. I bought the first bottle and in forty days I have gained back nineteen pounds in weight. Now I can eat anything at any time.

"I believe that my renewed vigor was responsible for the substantial raise in salary that I received. What Dare's has done for me it will do for others."

The man who writes this true account of his remarkable experience with Dare's Mentha Pepsin is Orval Wilbur, Assistant Cashier of the Blackwell Exchange Bank, Blackwell, Okla.

As he says, what Dare's has done to help him it will do for others, and Mayflower Drug Stores, Inc., and all other good druggists agree with him. Money back any time it fails.

The Blue Law Battle

Outlook for Repeal of the Sunday Statute Is Improved By the Primary Election Results.

The people of Baltimore are voting today in a referendum on the question of permitting on Sunday innocent amusements which are at present banned by the Blue Law. Interest in the question has overshadowed other issues which are also being settled at the polls, indicating the importance that the people attach to it.

We will be surprised if the liberal view fails to prevail.

We believe, also, that if the question were to be submitted to the people of Pennsylvania our Blue Law would be repealed. We base this belief not only on the Sun-Telegraph postcard poll, which showed sentiment in Allegheny County to be 5-to-1 against the ancient and intolerant statute, but also on the results of the primary election last Tuesday.

In Allegheny County and elsewhere numerous candidates for the Legislature who declared for repeal or modification of the Blue Law won nomination. A number of the leaders in the fight in the last session against the dismal Sunday have been named for another term.

In Snyder County, Dr. Harvey A. Surface, whose vote in favor of letting the people decide whether they shall have Sunday baseball brought him bitter opposition, has emerged triumphant.

In Luzerne County, Oliver Gicking, who voted against Sunday baseball, has been repudiated.

The Anti-Blue Law Association of Pennsylvania reports that "for the first time senatorial and legislative candidates indorsed by the association were nominated throughout the state."

There is every encouragement for the belief that Pennsylvania will not continue much longer to impose its ridiculous ban on innocent Sunday diversions on communities like Pittsburgh, which desire and need such entertainment.

The Flood Danger

Some Startling Engineering Studies Point to the Need Of Protective Reservoirs.

The Flood Commission of Pittsburgh is making an earnest effort to have the federal government include the construction of storage reservoirs at the headwaters of the Monongahela and Allegheny in a program of public works to revive prosperity.

This effort deserves the hearty support of every Pittsburgher, and not of Pittsburghers only, but also of all other residents of the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio valleys.

Flood waters invaded the Golden Triangle on March 15, 1907, as far as Sixth street and Liberty avenue, causing an immense amount of damage. We have had no flood of such proportions since then, but the danger has not passed.

Some engineering studies have been made by competent men which reveal appalling possibilities.

It is asserted that if the crest of the Allegheny River flood of March 15, 1907, and the crest of the Monongahela flood of the same date had arrived at the Point at the same time, instead of being two hours and 15 minutes apart, the whole of Smithfield street would have been under water except a short stretch near Diamond street.

It is asserted that if the storm of March 23-28, 1913, which caused the Dayton flood, had passed over Pittsburgh, instead of 60 miles west, there would have been from 46 to 48 feet of flood here, or 10 feet more than in 1907, and steamboats would have been able to navigate in Smithfield street.

It is asserted that if the heavy rainfall of December 12, 1927, had come up the Ohio River from Parkersburg, instead of leaving the valley at Parkersburg and proceeding towards Canton and Sharon, there would have been from 40 to 45 feet of water at the Point.

The necessity of protecting Pittsburgh from the possibility of such a catastrophe has long been recognized.

William Randolph Hearst's proposal that the government issue $5,000,000,000 of prosperity bonds for public works that will end unemployment steadily gains adherents.

The time is ripe to press for flood protection.

Legal 'Racketeers'

It Is the Bar Association's Duty to Expose and Condemn Improper Practices.

We learn from the Pittsburgh Legal Journal that the Allegheny County Bar Association is investigating not only "ambulance chasing" and other common practices of shysters but some newer "rackets," which have not heretofore been condemned.

One of the practices that has attracted the investigators' attention is described as follows: Certain credit, mercantile, collection and indemnity associations solicit accounts and commercial claims for the purpose of throwing business men and corporations who will not immediately respond to their demand into bankruptcy, often on disputed items. The associations are assisted by attorneys under an arrangement which amounts to a division of the fees.

It is to be hoped that the Bar Association will go to the bottom of all questionable practices, and if it finds them improper will publicly expose and condemn them.

Deaths at Safety Zones

Recent Fatalities Point to the Need of Slowness in Passing Traffic Islands.

The Sun-Telegraph has felt impelled to discuss automobile accidents on a number of occasions lately. If excuse be needed for again reverting to this subject, it may be found in two fatalities which occurred at safety zones last week.

H. W. Minnemeyer, former city paymaster, received fatal injuries Monday on stepping from the traffic island on Grant street, in front of the City-County Building. The following day a fatality of the same nature occurred at West Liberty and Capital avenues, the fifth death in an automobile accident at that location in the last two years.

Safety zones do not carry with them authority for autoists to drive past these "islands" with unabated speed. On the contrary an act of the Legislature fixes 10 miles an hour as the maximum speed limit at these points. If this law were obeyed we would have no fatalities at safety zones.

He Who Gets Slapped!

They lay a tax
Upon the backs
Of carpenters and bakers.
They hand the works
To butchers, clerks,
To cooks and pickle makers.

They tax the gains
Of fertile brains,
Of engineers and lawyers,
They slice away
The modest pay
Of gardeners and sawyers.

One class alone
Has waxed and grown
While all the world is weeping.
There is no tax
Upon the stacks
The bootleg boys are reaping.

Marry-Go-Round

'As Young as She Feels!'

I'm going to throw away my vanity case! I'm going to stop powdering my nose and tinting my fingernails and glacing in slot-machine mirrors, and soaking my furs with narcissus perfume!

* * *

"Any girl with a good job these days, can get married easily," says Walter Winchell. And that means it's SO!

Glad news! Woman has at last attained man's divine and exclusive prerogative—the right to be as young or as old as she feels and as plain or as fat or as comfortable as she cares to be.

* * *

For years men have joyfully boasted that "a woman is as old as she looks, but a man is as young as he feels." Meaning, of course, as young as his pocketbook feels! The G. P. (Good Provider) has never worried about his fading beauty or bothered to keep his nose powdered. If he had a few strands of hair to slick across his forehead, a good set of bridgework and the strength to resist a spring onion, he has always felt that he was sufficiently fascinating to the Impressionable Sex, just as God made him. Money is such a SOLID attraction. Nothing can outshine a halo of gold bonds.

But, now, woman can lean back, throw her diet-list out of the window and reach for the candy box. She need not worry about her freckles or shudder at the thought of a few wrinkles. She need not have her eyebrows plucked or her face lifted or her hair "fried." She can eat POTATOES! And Boston cream cake!

* * *

She need not buy a reducing machine, bother about her waistline, or rush out for a bottle of something at the sight of the first gray hair. If she's a success in business, or in her profession, she can be a success in love—or what fondly passes for love—clear down to the wheel-chair. Just as a man has always been.

* * *

Thus passeth, forever, the last bitter handicap, under which woman has suffered—the harrowing fear that she may not be attractive to men. The horror of middle age, when she may cease to be charming even to her own husband. The dread of being "an unplucked flower" in the Garden of Love!

* * *

A wife is no longer a liability—she is an ASSET, if she's a business-wife. Business success is beginning to mean something more to a girl than just three meals a day and a pay envelope. And, some day—Who knows?—we may have Spinsters' Clubs (to offset the Bachelors' Clubs), in which carefree single women will sit around and actually BOAST that they have escaped marriage.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 2.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Betimes and greeting some college hobbledehoys to question me about journalism and vastly shocked at my ignorance. But we made merry with ham and eggs and I showed them a few tricks of magic. And to meet Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing, and Ray Long.

Home and Frazier, Emma and Bob Hunt came to say farewell against their trip around the world. And Bob, now more than six feet tall, albeit last time I saw him I trotted him on my knee in his London nursery. So, my wife and I, to the circus with the Kent Coopers and H. M. Ayles-worths.

Dinner with Forrest Wilson, recalling our days with the Scripps papers. Also talking to John Held, Jr., Sigmund Spaeth and S. S. Van Dine and later to the Casino to hear Eddie Duchin sound the clavichord. And Kate Smith chanted gloriously nor have I ever heard such prolonged applause.

* * *

Perhaps the most indefatigable writer of letters to newspapers is Roscoe Peacock, who, from the peaceful village of North Cohocton, N. Y., pens controversial epistles that have stirred the Senate. The periodical subscription business is his trade but "probono-publicoing" the press and exploiting his brand of mnemonics are his diversions. An omniverous reader, he delights in pricking the affections of the literateurs. Thus, when some scribe records "gilding the lily," Mr. Peacock lets the world in on the correct phrase, "paint the lily." He is a veritable treasure trove for newspaper columnists for every letter from him means a bright paragraph or the revival of a forgotten memory.

* * *

Indeed, all columnists would do a fade-out without the generosities of the public that reads them. It is a lesser art that depends almost wholly on the fevers of its contagion and the loyalty of discipleships. I recall one sterile week when the process of moving interrupted all mails, the result of a faulty forwarding address. I had almost deserted writing for intensive study of the "Help Wanted Ads" before the orderly flow resumed.

* * *

Personal nomination for the season's most hilarious low comic—Milton Berle.

* * *

A great change comes to that once epigrammatic section of Broadway running from Times to Herald Square. The boiling pot in the 90's of Rialto witticisms and gossip is now coldly commercial with a flanking of business skyscrapers. One misses most Browne's Chop House, a mellow theatrical rendezvous hung with the stage great of the day. The specialty was a mutton chop with a refreshing silver tankard of English ale.

* * *

Hard by was the Kaiserhof, which rather pathetically offered a dab of comic relief in the first days of war tension. Over its proletrian facade was hastily hung a huge, gaudy United States flag fluttering in electric red, white and blue.

* * *

Another vivid memory of those days was the opening of the Hippodrome with that enormous spectacle, "Morgan's Raiders." Mounted horses galloped into the big tank and the riders were "drowned" while the horses swam to the other side. R. H. Burnside was in full flower of his astonishing stage genius, and Anna Marble—now Mrs. Channing Pollock—was proving to the world that the art of press agentry was not solely a masculine gift. For many, there will never be another playhouse encompassing the glamour of "The Hip."—an American version of London's "Old Vic." It carries on with small time vaudeville and feature pictures, but "only the melody lingers on."

* * *

At the Algonquin someone described the Heavenly Dream cocktail that is all the go in perfidious Albion. It was thought up by a drink mixer at Claridge's and consists of one part brandy and one part gin, frapped furiously. "Might I suggest that in the American version," offered Buff Cobb Brody, timidly, "they add the juice of two grapes."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You are lonely. You have been lonely all your life.

Even with many people around you in laughing, lighted places, you are lonely. Even when you are doing the thing you like best, and with the one you love most, you are lonely.

It startles you to read those words. You had thought they were your hidden secret. How did I guess this thing about you?

I guessed it because I am that way, too. We are all that way. That is what makes life so difficult for us all; often, so tragic. That is why love seems to fail us; why we can never find perfect joy or peace.

We are all lonely, and we all hate our loneliness. We want "someone who really understands;" someone who can share—really share—our every experience.

There is an old verse;

"Men are spirits clad in veils;
"Man by man was never seen;
"All our striving somehow fails
"To lift that which lies between."

Spirits clad in veils; lonely spirits striving to lift that which lies between; always failing; always lonely. We are all like that, and we all rebel against it.

Once there was a proud and passionate old man who rebelled against it terribly. He was very rich and powerful. He was a king over Israel, and money had brought him almost everything on earth. There was no hunger, save one, which he had not satisfied. He had seized rich lands. He had traveled into strange places. He had stuffed his treasury with gold and jewels. He had taken to himself the loveliest maidens. Yet still he was unsatisfied, for he was lonely.

Great King David was as lonely as the poorest shepherd on the hills. He wanted someone or something that would always feel close; that would not desert him in his dark times of fear and sorrow and remorse; that would understand him and help him and comfort him.

And for years he sought that someone or something—as you and I have sought. He broke laws. He did wild, wicked things, to satisfy that hunger in his heart.

And at last he did satisfy it. He found—Someone. He found Someone who would never desert him, never misunderstand him.

He found God.

God wasn't a person he could feel. God wasn't a thing he could possess. God was a Presence—a mysterious Power. And old King David found that that Presence was everywhere. In a blade of grass, in a bird's song, in a sunset sky, in a winter storm, in the eyes of a faithful dog and in the smile of a loving child—there was that mysterious Presence.

People did not always call it God. Some called it Life. Some called it by outlandish, heathen names. But it did not matter what a man called it, so long as he found it.

So long as a man found that ever present mystery, and realized that he was a part of it and that he would always be a part of it, he was comforted. For then his life had a meaning; it was not just a senseless accident, filled with pain and blundering. It was part of a great plan and purpose.

So King David found God; not in his treasuries; not in his harem; not in his splendid court; but in the simple things, in the simple chores, in the simple processes of life. Wherever he went he found God, and whatever happened to him was a part of God's purpose.

And out of this discovery King David wrote a poem. It was his answer to his loneliness. It is the answer to your loneliness and mine. Listen:

"O Lord, Thou has searched me and known me.
Thou knowest by down-sitting and mine up-rising,
Thou understandeth my thoughts afar off.
Thou compassest my path,
And art acquainted with all my ways.
Whither shall I go from Thy spirit?
Or whither shall I flee from Thy presence?
If I ascend up into heaven, Thou art there;
If I make my bed in hell, behold Thou art there.
If I take the wings of the morning
And dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea,
Even there shall Thy hand lead me
And Thy right hand shall hold me."

You are lonely? Say that when you are lonely. Go out into some quiet place and be still for a while. Be still until you forget yourself a little and can hear the small voices of life rising all around you. Then say that—and you will be comforted.

The Way Out

No. 5—Tariff Revision.

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

THE prolonged business depression and far-reaching unemployment constitute a broad challenge to political and business leadership. Instead of decrying the lack of leadership, the Hearst newspapers desire to make such contribution as they can to constructive, forward-looking economic leadership. The depression should be attacked simultaneously on all fronts. The emergency calls for the spirit of a field marshal who can coordinate and synchronize various remedial campaigns.

When Great Britain recently joined the procession of high tariff makers, it became apparent that the modern world had completely rejected the free trade doctrines formulated by the eighteenth century economist, Adam Smith.

Instead, leading governments have turned to the protectionist policies of Friedrich List, the German economist, who flourished half a century later.

Protectionism, in an earlier period when it succeeded, depended somewhat on what neighboring countries were doing. As long as the United States as a young country was able to pursue the protectionist policy more or less exclusively, it helped to enable infant industries to attain the stature of giants.

But other countries, including our best customers, have gradually emulated the policy of erecting ever higher tariff barriers, and the net effect is no longer to promote the interests of our country or any other, but consists of friction and a diminution of international trade.

INASMUCH as numerous home industries are now set up on the protectionist principle, it would of course be disturbing to switch suddenly to the diametrically opposite doctrine of free trade.

As a matter of fact, none but a few doctrinaires any longer advocate such an extreme reversal of policy. Even the Democratic party, which once favored tariff for revenue only, is no longer hostile to reasonable protection.

In order to revive American exports it would be desirable to make a scientific re-examination of the opportunity for effecting RECIPROCAL arrangements with foreign countries for reducing tariffs on special articles and commodities.

Decisions in individual cases should be based on expert studies of which industries and forms of agriculture and mining require protection, and which can succeed with little or no duties.

Such concessions as are made should be granted with a spirit of Yankee shrewdness to those countries which similarly let down the barriers for American exports.

IN place of the TRADE-DESTROYING, BONEHEAD HAWLEY-SMOOT TARIFF, which brought hostile reprisals from our best foreign customers, Congress should substitute a trade-promoting tariff policy, based on the principle of reciprocity.

Such a new vogue in economic legislation must be predicated on a recognition of the new status of international trade, which is necessarily restricted by the attempt of additional industrial nations to get a slice of the total world trade.

The Senate tariff bill, unsatisfactory in some directions, embodies the reciprocity principle, which has been advocated for decades by the Hearst newspapers.

As the principal creditor nation of the world, it behooves the United States to set an example in more SCIENTIFIC tariff making.

Reciprocal arrangements, which will reopen our markets to foreign imports, will give debtor nations an opportunity to honor their obligations, instead of continuing the present confidence-shattering drift toward repudiation and default.

DEMAND RESPECT

By Winifred Black

So the machinery of the law has broken down, has it, my dear correspondent?

There's a bootlegger on one side of you—a plain, every day and every night bootlegger.

And on the other side of you there's a speakeasy with a piano, a picolo and an "entertainer," and with cars running back and forth all night, people staggering past your house whooping, singing, or sobbing, and telling the world how friendless and forlorn they are, and how nobody loves them—nobody a-tall—not even the policeman who is trying to persuade them to go home.

The police know right where the bootlegger lives, and just how much he "legs" for a living; and as for the man who runs the speakeasy, all the policemen say he's one of the best fellows in the world. And that's that!

And so you'd like to know what's going to become of the country, and how you're going to bring your boy and your girl up to be law-abiding citizens, when things are as they are.

They laugh at the police. They make jokes about the courts. And as for the old-fashioned, out-of-date idea of respecting anybody else's wishes but their own, and as for the law itself—Pooh, pooh! Tut, tut! Fiddle-sticks and apron strings! Who cares for the law these days?

Well, now, my own correspondent, I'm sorry for you.

I am, indeed! And—whisper—you're just one of thousands of mothers who feels exactly the same way; and the fathers are even more bitter about it than you are.

And somehow, I can't seem to blame the fathers as much as I blame myself, and blame you, and blame nine out of 10 other women in this great paradise for women that we call United States of America.

How long is it since you told that daughter of yours to do something you wanted her to do, and then made her do it whether she wanted to or not? Quite a while, isn't it?

Just how much respect have you demanded from your growing son—not love, alone, but respect?
